EVACUATION MADE POINT OF ACCORD

Investigating Commission of Five Members To Give Complete Information on Situation.

TOKYO, Dec. 11.—(Friday)— Baron Reijiro Wakatsuki decided today as prime minister of Japan, the newspaper Asahi said, and his cabinet was expected to follow him out of office.

Opponents of the prime minister have accused the government of lacking a definite foreign policy and expressed dissatisfaction with its financial policy.

PARIS, Dec. 10.—Japan and China today accepted the compromise plan evolved by the League of Nations for settlement of the Manchurian dispute and the tangled issue was placed in the hands of a neutral investigating commission whose five members have not yet been selected.

Approval by the two belligerents made acceptance of the plan unanimous. The plan also has been indorsed by United States Ambassador James, who watched the deliberations of the league council at a distance during the three and a half weeks of discussion.

Kenshi Tanihara reserved for Japan the right to take such measures as it considers necessary against bandits in Manchuria. Dr. Alfred Sze, China's spokesman, stipulated that in accepting the plan China aban-dons none of its rights under existing treaties and expects that the Japanese will evacuate Manchuria with the greatest possible speed.

Disturbed conditions in Manchuria, which he blamed largely on the Japanese occupation, must not be made a pretext for further Japanese military activity, he said. He specified that the first duty of the commission on inquiry should be to investigate and report on the progress of evacuation.

Aristide Briand, who has been chairman at this difficult council session, described the role of the investigation commission as providing the council with complete information regarding the Manchurian troubles.

Lord Cecil, of England, placed the chief responsibility for the success of the scheme on the Chinese and Japanese themselves.

"It would be easy for either of them to destroy the work we have done," he said, "but I am sure this will not happen. If it did the aggressor would bear a heavy load of responsibility."

M. Briand, at one point in his closing speech, referred to the Manchurian problem as "of an entirely exceptional character." This opened the way for speeches by the representatives of Panama, Guatemala and Peru to the effect that the "special situation" in

Clark, Three Other Youths Win Scholarships to Oxford

Winners of the Rhodes scholarships to Oxford University for the year of 1932 as they were announced Thursday by the selecting committee are shown above. These four young men were chosen for their general
Clark Jr., of Atlanta, senior in Harvard University, representative from Georgia; (upper right) John W. Pendleton, of Lexington, Va.; (lower
legiate tennis champion, and (lower right) Don K. Price Jr., of Middles-boro, Ky.

Four outstanding southern students, including Richard N. Clark Jr., of Atlanta, were announced Thursday as winners of Rhodes scholarships to Oxford University for next year. They were chosen from 12 aspirants from six southern states. The scholarships enable each to study three years at the English university, and to pursue whatever course in education he may desire.

Those chosen were: Richard N.
Clark Jr., of 772 St. Charles avenue, now a senior at Harvard University;
Clayton Lee Burwell, of Charlotte, N.
C., a student at the University of the South, at Seawater, representing Tennessee; John White Pendleton, of Lexington, Va., graduate of the Virginia Military Institute, and now taking post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins University; and Don Krasner

'BLUEBEARD' HEARS GALLOWS VERDICT

BY ROBERT ST. JOHN.
CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.
(P)—Harry F. Powers, Lothario of the West Virginia hills, was convicted today of murder in the first degree for the "matrimonial racket" slaying Mrs. Dorothy Fressler Lemke, of Northboro (Mass.) divorcee.

The verdict carries a mandatory sentence of hanging.

It took a hour and 50 minutes for the 12 farmers and small-town businessmen to decide that the man who wooded dozens of women by mail should five gallows for the first of the killings he is accused of perpetrating in the subterranean death chambers of his windowless, soundproof gar-rage at a place called Quail Dell.

Arguments for a new trial will be heard Saturday.

MITCHELL BARES 'BRIBERY' BEHIND GOLDHURST PLEA

Attorney-General Explains Parole Board's Cancellation of Clemency for Cannon Broker.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—
Attorney-General Mitchell today disclosed that Harry L. Goldhurst, bucket shop broker patronized by Bishop James Cannon Jr., had attempted to bribe an assistant in the United States attorney's office in the southern district of New York. As a result of the attempted bribe Goldhurst's parole, from a five-year term in federal penitentiary for mail fraud, has been revoked.

Mitchell handed out the report without making public comment. The report explained why the federal parole board granted and then rescinded clemency for the New Yorker.

It revealed that former United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and former Assistant United States Attorney Robert E. Manley recommended parole for Goldhurst while knowing of the attempt at corruption, and that they had failed to report that Goldhurst had paid a court employee almost $5,000 to help him.

It also showed that Goldhurst had furnished valuable aid in clearing up a statement that the court employee was a young woman and that the "young woman referred to had represented to Goldhurst that she was getting the money and valuable pieces of jewelry for Miss Failer and one of the other assistant United States attorneys and one of the postal inspectors who had to do with this case."

Another important part of the report showed that the two attorneys recommended parole saying Goldhurst
furnished valuable aid in clearing up the bribe, which was shown as an "important matter."

Also the report said that Bishop Cannon, the Southern Methodist clergyman, vainly interceded for Gold-hurst so that he, Cannon, could be present for the case which "might involve him in publicity."

The justice department's inquiry into the Goldhurst parole was asked by Senator Glass, of Virginia, interested in the case because of his long-standing dispute with Bishop Cannon. He had asked if some of the federal officials might not have been involved.

Goldhurst, pleading guilty, was sen-

R. 'Shorty' Roberts Found Dead in Home

Ralph (Shorty) Roberts, 32, former proprietor of the Original Sandwich shop on North Broad street, was found shot to death in his apartment at 133 Tenth street, N. E., shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

Roberts was dead. An automatic pistol was near his right hand. He had been shot through the head.

The shooting occurred in the apartment building in which Coroner Paul Dunahoo resides. The coroner was called and was conducting an investigation.

Culbertsons Cut Lenz and Jacoby Lead 260 P ints by Dividing Six Rubbers

BY TOM O'NEIL.
NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 11.—
(Friday)—(P)—Mr. and Mrs. Ely
Culbertson reduced the lead of Sidney
S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby to 1,815 in the third session of their 100-rubber contract bridge match which ended at 1:25 a. m. today after more than six hours of play. The gain for the Culbertsons in the session was 260 points.

Each side won three rubbers in a sensational series of deliberate sets and doubling, there was even one redouble. The rubber standing now is:
Lenz and Jacoby 10; Culbertsons 6.
At one time during the session the Culbertsons had a deficit of only 415 points, their high-water mark of the series, due to a redouble on which Lenz was set 800 points.

The sixteenth rubber was the longest of the series taking 13 hands and if the Culbertsons had not won it their deficit would have mounted much. Due to deliberate sets on which they were doubled the Culbertsons' at one time had lost more than they had gained when Lenz was redoubled.

There were bluff bids and incipient protests and wrangles, and Culbertson raised his wagers to a total of $10,000, taking more from Lenz's before the third session began.

Here's what the proponents of the civil system had to say:
Culbertson: "The session was by far the most grueling. Everyone was on his toes and played splendidly.
Mr. Jacoby opened up a barrage of psychic or camouflaged bids, but not one was effective against alert opposition."

"Once more a woman was leading the field from the standpoint of skill and composure by playing an absolutely errorless game—the drama of all great players."

"With such a partner I cannot lose."
Lenz: "Culbertson was awfully slow. Here we started at 7 p. m. and finished at 1:25 a. m. with only six rubbers played. My partner played the game of the century."

he predicated his action, Mayor James L. Key Thursday vetoed a

he will veto another allocation of

DEMOCRATS SEE DELAY IN ACTION ON MORATORIUM

Borah Differs With Hoover, Saying More Changes on Basis of Ability To Pay Would
"Wipe Out" Obligations.

VOTE ON "HOLIDAY" SEEN BY CHRISTMAS

Leaders of Both Parties
Skeptical of White House Recommendation That Debts Be Again Revised.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)— Congress found itself with the explosive war debts issue on its hands tonight, placed there in a presidential recommendation for relief to European debtor-nations.

Sending the moratorium up to Capitol hill for approval, President Hoover said, "The present economic emergency" necessitates further "temporary adjustments" in amounts owed this country.

One of the first to differ with him was Senator Borah, foreign relations committee chairman. He lost no time saying another revision "on a basis of capacity to pay would wipe out the debts."

Late in the day Representative Collier informed the president there is little chance for the moratorium to be ratified by December 15, the next due-date on debts. He is the democratic chairman of the ways and means committee, which first examined the proposal.

He agreed with other strategically-placed congressmen that the year's debt-payment postponement probably will be approved before the Christmas recess, however.

DAILEY CHARGES UP TO GRAND JURY

Investigation of Newest Chapter in Lee Case Set for Today.

Pictures in Page 12.
With the foundation of the case against J. T. Dailey crumbled by Mrs.
Lucille Gann's repudiation of a statement involving Dailey in the slaying of Bonnie Lichtenstein and by an alibi further relating the statement, the Fulton county grand jury this morning will go into the Dailey case and its ramifications.

Solicitor-General John A. Boykin last Thursday afternoon held a lengthy conference with detectives and Mrs.
Gann, and announced that Mrs. Gann stuck to her story that she had been framed into swearing against Dailey, and that she is under debt of conscience for the murder of Lichtenstein, and Harry Kosofsky, who has a life sentence as Lee's accomplice, will be brought back to the grand jury under heavy guard, under arrangements made by Boykin.

Mrs. Gann was bound over to the grand jury Thursday morning by Judge A. L. Etheridge, of municipal court of Atlanta, on a charge of false swearing. Mrs. Helen Davis, who is charged by Mrs. Gann with procuring her alleged false statement, is held in the police station awaiting the result of the grand jury's inquiry.

Two of the six assistants, one of whom, John I. Kelley, already has been named, will be provided for. Kelley has been assigned to the public service commission and will get his pay from that body. Another will be assigned to and paid by the highway board.

One of the remaining four, T. R.
Gress, now an assistant to Attorney General Napier, gets a boost in salary under the reorganization law but the appropriations act says nothing about the raise and contains no item to take care of it. If he gets it—and he will know February 1 whether he does or not—it will have to be drawn from the $150,000 emergency fund. As for this, the chief executive is now assured he will have demands in excess of a million dollars.

Economical Gifts for Christmas Embody Genuine Spirit of Holiday

BY WILLIAM O. KEY JR.
What I had written, then, was wrong. That's the thought that occurred to me as I read the fragment of conversation of this scowling old man, slightly bent and gray, as he stood waiting for a car beneath an awning that dripped a cold, dreary rain.
Everything was misty and drenched.
It was an afternoon for gloomy thoughts.

He had just said: "... this Christmas giving is a pack of dumb foolishness!" No vehement was his tone that I recalled the words in the story
I wrote almost a week ago. They were: "There are few whose hearts are so cramped with thought of self that they do not feel the yearning to give at Christmas-time."

But here was a man who felt differ-ently. And yet, in his overcoat pockets, and in the free arm that did not hold the umbrella—notwithstanding, the awning—were bundles which could be nothing else than Christmas packages, for they were wrapped in green holiday paper. Small packages, and many of them; yet he condemned the tradi-

Auto Dealer Gives Six Cars To Help City's Destitute

BY ROY ROBERTS.
Two homeless families broke through the clouds Thursday and flooded Atlanta and at least one destitute family with hope.

From a generous auto dealer came an offer to support one family in need and the sunshine seemed just a little brighter—it was brighter!

John Smith Company, dealers in Chevrolet automobiles and good used cars, gave six substantial used autos to Ten Opportunities to be used in raising money to care for unfortunate families in need and the funds will go to relieve suffering and sorrow.

Just an hour later D. M. Whitman turned in his check for $10 to be applied to any Opportunity needing the money. And the sun beamed, the world was a better place in which to live.

Opportunity No. 2

Six mouths to feed—six growing children dependent upon a frail little widow who is now under observation by a clinic for a cardiac lesion.

Then death entered, one morning, leaving the wife, hardly more than a girl, to fight life's battles for herself and six children.
The once cheerful home became a monument of misery and heartache. Where would the young mother turn for aid? The father's death came in the midst of the greatest business depression in decades.

What can I do?
Over and over Mrs. Y. asked herself that question. Her family was in difficulty, poor and needy themselves. She took her young brood to live with relatives—relatives where only one breadwinner was at work to support a family too large, even without the additional seven.

Sorrow and worry took their toll. Her health began to fail and soon the earnings which had contributed to the support of her children were cut off. Ill and forlorn she is now unable to do

Governor Cannot Find Funds For Aides to Atty-Gen. Napier

BY R. E. POWELL.
Wanted: Four first-class lawyers, preferably with some political experience, to accept four $5,000 jobs and take a chance on getting paid out of the state's emergency fund.

That, fellow countrymen, is a tale of the first serious error made by the 1931 general assembly which worked many long days and a few long nights in trying to perfect a reorganization of the state government.

In an effort to avoid paying out of this fund and that, more than $130,000 per year for legal services, the lawmakers decided to authorize the governor and attorney general to employ six full-time assistant attorneys general. The authorization contemplated payment out of the general treasury.

But the appropriation bill, final arbitrator of financial customs on capitol hill, carries only $10,000—$500 less than is necessary to pay the attorney general and his present assistant—to say nothing about secretaries, postage, new law books and traveling expenses.

KAPPA SIGMAS HOLD MEETING

Meeting in the main dining room of the Atlanta Athletic Club in honor of the Atlanta Alumni Association of Kappa Sigma fraternity Thursday night attended a banquet and heard addresses by a number of charter members of the chapters at the Georgia School of Technology and Emory University.

Approximately 100 members attended the Atlanta dinner, one of a large number of such functions all over the country celebrating the establishment of the fraternity. Among the speakers were Horace B. Russell,

HOOVER GIVES $5,000 TO JOBLESS ENGINEERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(AP)—President Hoover, himself an engineer, has given $5,000 to aid in relieving distress among unemployed members of his old profession.

His check was received today in a letter to H. De B. Parsons, general chairman of the professional engineers' committee on unemployment. The four national engineering societies are co-operating in the relief work, which is to be done on a national scale.

CENSURE OF M'DONALD DEFEATED IN COMMONS

LONDON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A labor opposition vote of censure against Prime Minister MacDonald's government for its handling of economic questions was defeated by a vote of 439 to 44 in the house of commons tonight.

The motion calling for the vote of censure arraigned the government for failure to take steps to "deal with the currency and exchange situation" and for not producing a plan to cope with the problems of unemployment and high rent.

Generous Store Hires
225 To Fill 150 Jobs

CLEVELAND, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Four persons fainting and traffic in downtown Euclid avenue was jammed for half an hour today when a crowd estimated at 800 men and women surged in front of the George F. Bowman Company to apply for 150 jobs which had been advertised for the holiday season.

Although he needed only 150, Remington Fock, manager of the store, hired 225. "We didn't have the heart to turn so many away," he said.

NIGHT CLUB CLOSED BY FLORIDA JUDGE

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Federal Judge Halsey L. Ritter today ordered Frank Valentine to close his Two Bits night club here or spend the next 10 months in Dade county jail after the jurist delivered himself of comment on night clubs operated primarily for drinking purposes and those operated for dining and dancing.

Judge Ritter, however, warned Prohibition Agent M. J. Gorman that incidental drinking of a bottle of liquor in a night club is not sufficient evidence upon which to base charges against the proprietor, and declined to make an outright order revoking Valentine's probation under a suspended 10 months' sentence on another charge.

"Could you remain in business if you prohibited persons from bringing liquor with them?" Judge Ritter asked A. O. Zimmerman, manager of the club and co-defendant with Valentine.

"No, sir," Zimmerman said. Later Valentine voiced similar opinion.

"A restaurant where liquor might be used incidentally is legitimate, but one that depends upon the drinking of liquor by its patrons is a nuisance," the judge declared.

GANDHI DEPLORES LEAGUE'S TACTICS

GENEVA, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi, in making a farewell address today, said the League of Nations lacked the necessary sanctions to enforce its decisions as demonstrated by its efforts in the Manchurian controversy.

Speaking at a gathering organized by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, he suggested that the League adopt his methods for non-violence as a means of achieving its aims.

When asked from the audience how workers could obtain justice without violence if capitalism resorted to force, he replied: "If only labor will recognize that capital is helpless without labor, labor will then come into its own. We have come under the hypnotic influence of capital and think of it as the only thing on earth. This is a fallacy."

"When capital wants labor to say 'yes,' labor should roar 'no,' even though the workers should be obliged to bare their chests to bullets and breathe poison gas. In the words of the Bible you cannot save yourself unless you are prepared to lose yourself."

TIGERT COMMENTS STUDENTS' CONDUCT

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—In his second address of the year to freshmen students of the University of Florida, President John J. Tigert today described the conduct of the students as "virtually flawless."

"Our discipline committee met only twice last year, and has had no occasion whatever to assemble this fall. Through the office of the dean of students," Dr. Tigert said, "I have reports to show not only much improved scholastic records, but general conduct that is little short of amazing."

"America is not going to recover from the depression until her people use their brains and stop believing that the greatest and grandest of everything in the universe is within an arm's reach," he told the first-year students.

The university has an enrollment of nearly 2,500 students this term.

RALPH CAPONE ENTERS

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Ralph Capone, older brother of Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, entered the McNeil island federal penitentiary, 15 miles from Tacoma, today. He was transferred from the Leavenworth (Kan.) prison and is under sentence for three years for federal income tax evasion.

ANTI-HOOVER BODY FORMED BY G. O. P.

President's Campaign Aide in 1928 Now Leader in New Movement.

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
(Copyright, 1931, by The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—An anti-Hoover republican organization of unknown strength was established today under the command of one of the president's chief lieutenants in the 1928 campaign.

Horace Mann, of Tennessee, who successfully directed the southern drive of Hoover forces three years ago, is the guiding genius of the movement. He announced establishment of headquarters here.

Claiming a nationwide organization, carefully prepared by months of work, Mann declared to name the candidate to be supported in the 1932 republican convention.

It is reported that supporters of Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, have been in touch with the Mann group, but there is reason to believe that the organization really would like to throw its support to Senator Hiram Johnson, of California.

Johnson has assailed the Hoover policies but has declined so far to step into the presidential race. The name of Charles G. Dawes, ambassador to England, also is heard in the speculation.

Mann did not discuss those to be associated with him except to say they were "regular republicans."

"If the next republican convention, manipulated and composed of any considerable number of the Hoover patronage machine, renominates Mr. Hoover," said Mann, "it will be an utterly useless gesture by the republicans which will result in certain and calamitous defeat in November, 1932."

He pointed to the capture of the house by the democrats in recent elections and referred particularly to the republican upsets in Michigan, New Jersey and Kentucky.

"There are many self-sacrificing, patriotic, lifelong republican statesmen from among whom we may select the nominee," he added.

Mann broke with President Hoover shortly after the new administration took office in 1929. Their differences were said to center about southern patronage.

Administration republican leaders insist that the south, Mann's natural stamping ground, is standing by President Hoover. But Mann asserts his new organization is not now confined to the south, and encompasses instead every section of the country.

WOODCOCK SCORES ANTI-PROHI GROUPS

Enforcement Being Made More Difficult, Declares Dry Force Chief.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—The chief of prohibition enforcement went before one of the most militant of anti-prohibition groups tonight and told them they were making his task more difficult.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, federal prohibition director, was invited by the Crusaders to talk things over.

He informed them about the problems of his job. He granted full privilege to any who wish to agitate against the law. But he cautioned them gently:

"It is your privilege, gentlemen, but in judging our efforts fairly, as I know you will, take into account that your activity is making our task more difficult."

Woodcock tagged temperance education leading toward "that much misused word, culture," as "the real problem" of prohibition.

Conceding there is increased drinking now "among a certain class who prefer a jazz jig to a Chopin waltz," he read his audience a lecture on the philosophy of bona-fide culture, including temperance education. To this remedy, he said, must be left the private violator within "a little circle of immunity from law" which "our present philosophy" provides. He said current materialistic standards toughen his task.

"Was there ever a time when the printed page which reaches the people was so lacking in those enduring qualities of truth and beauty?" he asked. "Was there ever a time when the plays and the music people hear were so utterly trivial and unworthy?"

"Running through the whole miserable mess of sensation and jazz there is one idea—that getting money is the test of human success. When you set up rules of conduct based solely upon what is practical and not upon what is right, the situation is a hard one for the enforcing of any law."

Woodcock maintained the law has cut down general liquor consumption. A bureau study for the year ending June, 1930, showed unequal per capita production equal to 35 per cent of lawful manufacture in 1914.

Brilliant White House Reception Honors Capital Diplomatic Corps

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—President and Mrs. Hoover were hosts tonight to the elite of the nation's capital who thronged through the spacious halls of the White House as guests at their reception to the diplomatic corps.

The function ushered in the brilliant winter social season. Envoys from a score or more of nations, garbed in glittering uniforms covered with gold braid, mingled with the more somberly dressed Americans, in formal black and white evening dress.

Women, averted in gorgeous gowns, moved among the sparkling gathering. Jewels and medals glistened, vying in radiance beneath the bright lights of great chandeliers.

The throng moved slowly in long lines through the broad halls of the White House to the blue room, where the President and Mrs. Hoover received. The President and the "first lady of the land" bowed, smiled, had a word for each and shook hands with the endless line moved in and out of their sight. No less than 2,000 persons shook hands with them during the two hours or more that they remained.

Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, was among the most striking figures in the international assembly. His towering figure, standing over six feet three inches in height, was more than usually impressive in the full diplomatic uniform of the empire.

Less massive but no less resplendent was Katuki Debutchi, the ambassador from Japan, his small, rotund figure fairly weighted down with gold braid and medals. Madame Debutchi, elegant, cultured, and thoroughly cosmopolitan, was among the most exquisite members of the diplomatic set.

Nobile Giacomo De Martino, short as Debutchi but likewise a striking figure in the reception, was a distinguished guest. As dean of the diplomatic corps, his was a place of honor during the evening, and he strolled about in his brisk military stride, shaking hands, smiling at all and peering about at his fellow diplomats through gold-rimmed pince-nez.

The President and Mrs. Hoover took their places promptly at 9 p. m. in the blue room, where dimmed lights shed a soft effulgence over them. The guests, guided into their presence by graceful White House functionaries, were introduced and, pausing but briefly, passed on.

Higher members of the diplomatic corps and others of equal distinction drove through the grounds from the south entrance and up to the south terrace. Others were the guests of the East Executive Avenue. The lights from hundreds of cars flashed through the darkness, lighting up the old colonial mansion.

Inside, once they had met the President and Mrs. Hoover, the guests moved into other rooms. In the east room, beautifully gowned women danced in the arms of diplomats and other distinguished guests, to music by the United States marine band. The musicians, themselves gay in uniform, bright as red poppies, added to the color of the rapidly shifting scene.

Little Comfort for Hoover In Appraisals of Message

Macon Telegraph: The president recommends nothing in the way of legislation which he has not already indicated he would recommend. He does not endeavor to attack the fundamentals of the situation at all; he merely takes it for granted that a little patching up and fixing up of the machine which we are now using will be all that is necessary.

He does not want a revision of the tariff, although the tariff is regarded as one of the major causes of our economic illness. He does not go more than superficially into the question of federal power regulation, although that question is one which typifies the struggle against the abuses of holding companies and too great concentration of wealth.

In short, the president makes an analysis of the situation which can be accepted by anybody and then recommends the direct opposite of what liberals of all sorts believe to be the cure. . . . The president speaks only for the minority. Because he does not change his views to meet changing situation, it is likely that he will continue, as long as he is president, to speak for the minority and that he will continue as president only until the majority can have a say at the polls.

Birmingham Age-Herald: Its (the message) chastened tone betokens a sorely tried and sadly tired spirit. . . . It is, we have been told, the work of Mr. Hoover's own hand and mind. It will not help to place the president among the clear thinkers or speakers of the White House.

If America is today suffering from the effects of conditions abroad, the president is singularly loath to emphasize our relations with the world outside.

What strikes a thoughtful person reading this presidential utterance at such a distressing juncture in the nation's life is the absence of a large, vigorous, integrated view of the problems besetting us. . . . This impression may be due to his record of ineptitude, or it may be due to the apathy of the public mind, or it may be due to the feeling that means of salvation now presented should have been utilized long ago.

Cleveland Plain-Dealer: Herbert Hoover attunes his annual message to congress to the prevailing undertone of economic disturbance. He places a full basket of trouble on the legislative docket. It is a message with much review, some promise, but few specific recipes for betterment.

. . . The man who signed the Hawley-Smoot tariff and made it law, to the conservative he has long been in contradiction of his own oft-expressed opinions, now recommends that no general revision of schedules be undertaken, thus challenging the general intelligent opinion of the country that high rates of this act are one of the factors operating to impede a return to prosperity.

With the control of congress divided the president's annual message is less important as a guide to legislation than as a mirror of the executive mind. . . . He is revealed, unabashed, as the conservative he has long been suspected of being. There is not a suggestion in the whole message of the Hoover of the Belgian relief; it is the mining promoter who is applying his old methods to boost the public stock of America. Billions for organized business is his motto; not one cent for the individual. . . . It is a deniable platform, a platform that conforms to the wishes of the business world.

New York Times: One rises from reading the president's message to congress with the feeling that it is in general correct, but cold. Those who looked to Mr. Hoover at this national juncture for fervent and inspiring leadership will be disappointed. . . . He has indicated the main lines which legislation should follow, has interposed in advance his personal negative to various plans that have been proposed, but has somehow managed to do it all without giving a stirring word or symbol for the people of the United States.

Baltimore Sun: It remains to be said that, even if the most generous appraisal be placed upon the president's program, he does not touch what he himself concedes to be the greatest cause of our difficulties. . . . The continued dislocations, shocks and setbacks from abroad. . . . Though Mr. Hoover was named by the nation confident that he was an expert in foreign trade, he has again displayed dangerous weakness. Congress, if it is to serve the public, must supply what Mr. Hoover is unable to supply.

Raleigh News and Observer: President Hoover begins his message by offering an alibi for the bad conditions that have come to America. In another part of his message he again says, "Our difficulties have plainly originated from these (outside) sources. Most of this could have been averted if this country had been as willing to make sacrifices for peace as it made for war, and if it had not denied foreign markets for the produce of factory and farm."

Louisville Courier-Journal: While recognizing the need of higher taxes and expatriating on need of economy to help high taxes stop the yawning hole in the treasury, Mr. Hoover dwells fondly on many schemes which he has hatched that would make the hole still bigger. . . . schemes intended to cure what he calls "credit paralysis," which he holds to be the cause of the depression's prolongation.

Columbus Inquirer-Sun: The president asks for adjustment of anti-trust laws to remove injustices and which would allow combinations in natural resources. Mr. Hoover makes no mention of the reckless mergers and holding company abuses which are wringing money from the people.

ZAMORA ELECTED SPAIN'S PRESIDENT

Provisional Head Becomes First Constitutional Leader of Nation.

MADRID, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Nieto Alcala Zamora, a farmer's son, was elected first constitutional president of the Spanish republic by vote of the national assembly tonight.

The election was by secret ballot and Senator Alcala Zamora got 362 votes out of a possible 466.

Thus the man who is called the father of the republic and who served as provisional president after Alfonso XIII had been overthrown, becomes the first and probably the last president to be elected by this procedure.

The new constitution, adopted yesterday, provides that hereafter the president shall be elected by a body composed of members of the assembly and electors chosen by the people in equal numbers.

It was on April 14 that Alfonso went out and Alcala Zamora came in, but on October 14 he split with the assembly over matters concerning the status of religious orders in Spain, and resigned as provisional president. He was succeeded by Manuel Azana, who now retires as provisional president.

The new head of the state owes his election to the combined action of the minority leaders in the assembly who agreed to support him in the belief that since he was the man who had headed the revolutionary movement which gave birth to the republic he should be made its first constitutional president.

"I'll try not to be a dictator during my tenure," said the president-elect, a farmer's son in an unpressed suit, who will head the country ruled not so long ago as a monarchy by King Alfonso XIII.

The president-elect will take over the executive power in a gala inauguration tomorrow, replacing Provisional President Manuel Azana, who is expected to become premier in a new coalition cabinet.

It will be a national holiday as the president takes the oath of office, to mark the first day of a new constitutional government after more than eight years of dictatorship and provisional cabinets.

Milk Dispensers of City Face Bucolic Murder, Says Letter

Now comes one A. Bulloch and solemnly deposes that he (or she) is on the verge of murder. If the worst happens, it will be known as "The Bucolic Bacillus Bulgarian Murder."

Most homicides in this country are motivated by a lust for gain, while those on the European continent as a rule come under the classification of "crimes passionelles" there being, usually, a lovely lady in the case.

But if A. Bulloch carries out his (or her) threat, the cause of Atlanta's next front page killing will be, of all things, buttermilk.

Buttermilk as a motive for murder is rather uncommon. But soda dispensers of Atlanta would do well to heed the ominous note contained in A. Bulloch's letter to The Constitution, which opens up with this startling request:

"If there is any way you can stop it, you may prevent a murder being committed some day." Think of that! A newspaper being asked to prevent a perfectly good story from breaking.

"When I go into a soda fount and say, 'Gimme a glass of milk,' explains A. Bulloch, 'the soda jerker will ask, 'Sweet milk or buttermilk?'

With great control over my feelings, I reply in a resigned manner, 'Sweet milk,' while in my heart I want to murder him. I thought sweet milk was sweet milk and buttermilk was buttermilk. I cannot conceive of a person wanting a glass of buttermilk asking for a glass of 'milk.'

"These are trying times, and a lot of us are on a nervous tension, and some day someone whose nerves are at a breaking point will go into a soda fount and say, 'Gimme a glass of milk,' and the soda jerker asks, 'Sweet milk or buttermilk?' that's as far as he will get. He will be shot dead before he can finish. And, furthermore, I believe any jury would find a verdict of justifiable homicide."

(Editor's Note: Not below Mason and Dixon's line, A. Bulloch. It's an old southern custom; and a southerner would no more ask merely for a glass of milk than one would ask for a bottle of pickles in a delicatessen.)

NOTED FLIERS DUE TO ARRIVE TODAY

Barring unforeseen bad weather, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Healey Day, noted flying couple, who are ending a "round-the-world airplane tour," will arrive at Candler field today on their way to their New Jersey home, from which they began their aerial trip around the globe several months ago.

Mr. Day is a designer of planes and the couple are flying in a ship which was designed by Day. It is a two-place side-by-side craft, with a sliding table in the cockpit on which Mrs. Day types memoranda of the world air tour.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Day are pilots, taking turns in flying their craft, which has visited approximately 40 countries in the last few months. They have had numerous adventures and once were forced down in the tiger country of Burma. While in Atlanta they will stay at the Robert Fulton hotel.

The Days are expected some time during the early afternoon from Jackson, Miss.

BAINBRIDGE FUNERAL FOR MRS. DONALSON

ALBANY, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Funeral services for Mrs. Louie M. Donalson, who died Wednesday night at her apartment in a hotel here, will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at Bainbridge.

Mrs. Donalson, a prominent Georgia resident, who served as chairman of the women's department of the International Cotton States exposition in Atlanta in 1895, succumbed last night after having been in ill health for some time.

The late John Temple Graves, a prominent editor, once termed her "the sweetheart of Georgia" because of her charm in her home and in her work for women's movements in Georgia.

Before her marriage to the late Walter Gordon, brother of General John B. Gordon, she was Miss Louie McLendon, member of a widely known Georgia family. After Mr. Gordon's death she married John B. Donalson, of Bainbridge, and lived there until coming to her daughter's home here last year.

The funeral service will be held in the Bainbridge Presbyterian church. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Earl M. Donalson, of Albany, and Mrs. Walter Thompson, of Philadelphia, by her first marriage. Three grandchildren, Linda Gordon Donalson, Amelia Donalson and Louie Donalson, of this city, and Mrs. Henry Scott, of Atlanta, also survive.

CHARLESTONIAN HEADS SURGEONS OF SOUTH

BULLET TEST ORDERED AT TRIAL OF WILLIAMS

Ballistics Expert To Fire Missiles in Cotton Bale in Open Court.

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 10.—(P)—An open court test of a ballistic expert's ability to determine when two bullets are fired from the same gun was in prospect for jurors hearing the case against J. M. Williams, former Methodist minister on trial for killing his son.

Shortly after the defense rested its case today Judge A. L. Franklin instructed defense counsel to have in court two bullets which they asked Maurice O'Neil, New Orleans ballistic expert to examine.

The test would be made in open court, it was announced, after two pistol bullets were fired into a bale of cotton.

Williams took the witness stand today to deny any knowledge of how his son, Ralford Grady Williams, a sailor in the United States navy, met his death.

He left the boy in Atlanta on Tuesday, August 4, and returned to his home in Rochelle shortly before midnight, he read from a prepared statement, and was informed the following morning that his son's body had been found.

His first knowledge that he was under suspicion came with his arrest on September 6, he said.

The state rested its case on Wednesday after attempting to prove that the former minister killed the boy to collect his insurance money. Indications tonight were that the case would reach the jury some time tomorrow afternoon.

The trial marks the second time Williams has been tried for the murder of his son. The first jury was unable to agree.

OLDEST POLICEMAN SUCCUMBS AT HOME

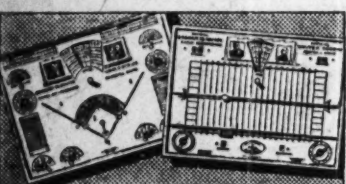

ROME, Ga., Dec. 10.—William C. Miller, 57, died Thursday morning at his home on Darlington way after an illness of several months. He was the oldest member of the Rome police department in point of service, having been connected with the department continuously for 33 years.

He is survived by his widow and the following children: Mrs. Clarence Hall, Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. Emmett Frizzell, Baltimore; Miss Lena Miller, Rome, and Carl Miller, of Tacoma, Wash. Also surviving are the following brothers and sisters, Augustus and Adolph, of Floyd county; Bell and G. W., of Texas; Hillary, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Leila Willis, of Floyd county.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Sunday morning from Maple Street Baptist church by the pastor, Rev. H. P. Joyner. Interment will be in Myrtle Hill cemetery.

SERENADER SHOT DEAD AT PARTY BY GROOM

SWAINSBORO, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP) Ted Brown, 29, member of a party which went to the home of Perry Hooks early today to serenade Hooks and his bride, was shot to death as he entered the house. Hooks was charged with murder.

Acquaintances said Brown and Hooks were good friends and that Hooks probably did not recognize Brown in the darkness.

Other reports, officers said, were that Hooks resented attempts of several of the serenaders to enter the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooks had been to a party at a house a short distance from where they lived. Afterwards, those attending the party went to the home of Hooks for the serenade. Officers said they were told that as Brown started to enter the house, he was shot at close range.

Brown leaves a widow and a child. Officers said there would be no inquest, because there was a large group present at the shooting.

CENTRAL OF GEORGIA TO SLASH PAY CHECKS

SAVANNAH, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP) President H. R. Pollard, of the Central of Georgia Railway Company, today announced that pay of all officers and employees of the company except those working under contract or group wage agreements will be reduced 10 per cent.

He said: "Negotiations for reduction in the rates of pay of employees except those working under contract or group wage agreements will be reduced 10 per cent."

It was understood from E. R. Richardson, president of the Ocean Steamship Company, that an order similar to that issued by the Central would be announced for the O. S. S. Company.

An announcement like the above was made Tuesday by the Illinois Central system, which owns the Central of Georgia.

COSTA NEW PRESIDENT OF ATHENS CHAMBER

ATHENS, Ga., Dec. 10.—Joseph Costa Jr., president of Joseph Costa Company, was elected president of the Athens Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of directors yesterday.

L. S. Davis, of the Talmadge Brothers Company, was elected first vice president, and Robert Hanna, of Hanna Manufacturing Company, second vice president. Tate Wright, county attorney and clerk to the county commissioners, was re-elected treasurer.

C. D. Terrell, secretary of the chamber, announced today that the definite program for 1932 has not been fully developed, but among the principal objectives will be playground and recreational facilities, an adequate airport and completion of the paving of highways leading into Athens.

For Hard Coughs or Colds That Worry You

A Super Help
Creomulsion is made to give supreme help for coughs or colds that worry you. It combines seven helps in one—the best helps known to science. It is for quick relief, for safety.
But careful people, more and more, use it for every cough that starts. No one knows where a cough may lead. No one can tell which factor will do most that depends on the type of cold.
Creomulsion costs a little more than lesser helps. But it means the utmost help. And it costs you nothing if it fails to bring the quick relief you seek. Your druggist guarantees it. Use it for safety's sake.

REALTORS TO CONVEENE AT SEA ISLAND BEACH

Taxation Problems Loom in Discussions on Real Estate Gathering.

SEA ISLAND BEACH, Ga., Dec. 10.—(P)—Taxation problems confronting property owners in this state will be thoroughly discussed here tomorrow with the convening of the Georgia Real Estate Association in annual convention.

Augusta, Brunswick, Atlanta, Albany, Macon, Athens, Columbus, Savannah and other Georgia cities will be represented during the two-day session, a sightseeing trip Saturday afternoon and a fish dinner at the Yacht Club Saturday night will bring the convention to a close.

Guy W. Ellis, secretary of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will address the members on Saturday on the subject, "Why They Bought."

Mr. Ellis lives in Detroit, and is a former president of the Detroit Real Estate Board. He is co-author of a course in real estate selling, published by the national association two years ago.

John J. Thompson, Atlanta, president of the Georgia association, will deliver his annual report tomorrow, and Howard E. Coffin, developer of Sea Island Beach; John R. Fawcett, president of the Real Estate Tax Payers' Association, Savannah; Francis Mason, president of the Real Estate Board, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Jessie B. Hart, president of the Macon Shaving bank, and others will talk.

New officers will be elected Saturday following the address by Mr. Ellis.

CLASHES MARK TRIAL IN WAYCROSS COURT

WAYCROSS, Ga., Dec. 10.—(AP) Sharp clashes in the testimony of state and defense witnesses in a courtroom that was overcrowded brought the trial of William C. Devere, charged with the slaying of J. H. "Cracker" Johnson, Ware county police officer, into an overtime session tonight.

Judge M. D. Dickerson ordered the night session in order to speed the trial. Two other defendants, Mrs. William C. Devere and Andrew Parsons, alias Andrew Norman, indicted jointly with Devere for the Johnson slaying, await trial.

The state's contention is that the county officer was riding on the running-board of Devere's car, after Devere and his two companions had been arrested here in July on a charge of liquor running, and was carrying the trio to jail. It is their position that Johnson was knocked off the speeding car driven by Devere, the car being swerved into a concrete underpass.

The trio were captured some hours later in the woods near this city, their car having been abandoned. Devere was shot before he was arrested by a posse.

State's witnesses included Deputy Sheriff Mock, Judge J. D. Blalock, who was one of the first persons to reach the wounded officer, and whose automobile narrowly avoided a collision with the fleeing death car; Stafford Moody, whose car also narrowly escaped being run down by the Devere automobile; Leroy Banks, a negro bellboy, who testified he saw the fleeing car, and that one of the occupants carried a pistol; a hired hand, Mrs. Leroy Smith, Emma Strickland, J. W. Aldrich, captain of Waycross police; E. W. Johnson, brother of the deceased.

The defense offered witnesses whose testimony was designed to show that the occupants of the car did not willfully knock the officer off the car, the witnesses including Leon O'Quinn, a laundry truck driver who was among the first to reach the wounded man and who claimed to have been an eyewitness to the entire affair; W. J. Corbett and Mrs. W. J. Corbett, who saw the car two blocks before it entered the underpass where the tragedy occurred; Earl D. Bell, of Arlington, Fla., and N. B. Huff, of Macon, hitch-hikers, who saw the car just prior to its fatal swerve into the underpass; Sam Taylor and his son, V. R. Taylor, farmers, who were members of the searching party which captured the Deveres; Dr. D. M. Bradley, Dr. W. M. F. Eolas and S. R. Kirtan.

The case probably will not be concluded until late Friday, despite the extra session tonight.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and snaky and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of misanthropic water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your misery and discomfort is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

GRANDI LAUDS AMERICA FOR PEACE LEADERSHIP

Mussolini Leads Applause as Foreign Minister Reports on U. S. Visit.

ROME, Dec. 10.—(P)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi delivered his report on his American visit to the senate today to the accompaniment of an almost unprecedented display of enthusiasm and approval on the part of Premier Mussolini.

The foreign minister addressed the senate for 20 minutes. At his side stood the premier, smiling and nodding approvingly at each telling point. Signor Mussolini led the applause at the conclusion of the speech.

Signor Grandi told the senate that "one of the surest courses" for the rehabilitation of the world is provided by the efforts of American statesmen. He asserted his deep confidence in those efforts and assured his hearers that Italy and the United States could work together for the promotion of peace and prosperity.

The foreign minister emphasized the possibility and desirability of settling the naval differences between France and Italy.

He called the Hoover moratorium

Rail Passenger Killed Every 537 Million Miles

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—One death of a passenger for every 537,512,840 miles traveled—that's the railroads' record.

It was cited today by the interstate commerce commission annual report. In the year covered, the rails carried almost 708,000,000 passengers for a total of 26,735,642,000 miles. Only 50 lost their lives in accidents.

the "first real act of international cooperation" and the first attempt to rise above the "tragic debt and credit balances written with the blood of 10,000,000 men who will never see the sun again."

Recalling that America supported his suggestions for an armaments truce, the foreign minister remarked that the truce and the Hoover moratorium were inspired by the same ideals. Both truce and moratorium are provisional, he added, leading to practical and immediate results.

VERMONT GIRL TELLS STORY OF KIDNAPING

Co-ed Reappears in Montreal
After 6-Day Disappearance.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 10.—(P)—Telling a story of her kidnaping by two men in an automobile, Esther Pitts, 20-year-old co-ed of Vermont University, reappeared today in the Windsor railway station here after being absent from her home in Burlington, Vt., since last Friday.

The girl first communicated with her parents by long distance phone and at their direction waited in the station until they arrived.

Emergency Aid Funds
Sought for Farmers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—The secretary of agriculture is to be asked tomorrow to grant a petition of agricultural credit corporations of Georgia and other states to advance emergency funds to finance unpaid balances on federal farm loans.

Members of the Georgia delegation in congress said they would urge the secretary to grant the petitions. They said farmers have paid about 75 per cent of federal loans obtained through agricultural credit corporations, but some of them are unable to pay the balance.

It was pointed out that unless aid was forthcoming, the farmers would lose through foreclosure the cotton, live stock, real estate and other collateral for the loans.

George L. Williams, Savannah, is expected to represent the Georgia-Carolina Credit Corporation and the Middle Georgia Credit Corporation, and E. S. Cook, the Growers' Finance Corporation of Atlanta. Andrew J. Fleming, secretary of the Georgia Cotton Growers' Cooperative Association, Atlanta, is expected to appear with the Georgia delegation.

Nicaraguan Canal
Found Unwarranted

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—The war department told congress today a canal across Nicaragua between the Atlantic and Pacific was not warranted at present.

The recommendation, made in a letter written by Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers, said the "present traffic passing transit through the Isthmus (of Panama) and the prospective increase in such traffic in the next few years do not require that any steps be taken to provide further capacity at Panama."

Brown added: "A second canal would have important advantages, including a saving in time and increased dependability to shipping and increase in trade and commerce and improvement in international relations, and added safety, and speed in the mobilization of our naval forces in the event of a national emergency."

PRINCESS' BROTHER
DIES IN FLORIDA

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Dec. 10.—(P)—Papers and letters found in the possession of Charles Arthur Rose, 65, found dead in his room here this morning, indicated that he was the brother of Princess Soltykoff, who, according to letters from a firm of London solicitors, written in 1928, was in a Paris, France, sanitarium.

THOMAS C. ANDERSON.
NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10.—(P)—Thomas C. Anderson, one-time powerful figure in the oil business and New Orleans politics, died early today at his palatial home on St. Charles avenue from a heart attack. He was 73 years old.

MISS CHRISTINE REYNOLDS.
FRANKFORT, Ky., Dec. 10.—(P)—Miss Christine Reynolds, prominent in charitable and civic work, died suddenly of a heart attack early today at her suburban home, "Fleetwood." She was nearly 60 years old.

BAPTISTS ASSAIL
STAGE IMMORALITY

ORLANDO, Fla., Dec. 10.—(P)—Florida Baptists went on record in annual convention here today as favoring a return to revivalism "to stem the tide of immorality."

The convention blamed the stage, vaudeville and moving picture exhibitions for a large measure of existing conditions.

Sex pictures, "prepared by specialists in their line of showing vice at its top form," and divorce were debated by speakers at the closing sessions today.

"Filthy books, an index to modern sins," were also brought up for censure.

Dr. Lincoln C. Hulley, president of Stetson University, at Deland, was the main speaker on tonight's program.

Daytona Beach was selected for the 1932 meeting place.

IN WEST VIRGINIA

LEWISBURG, W. Va., Dec. 10.—(P)—Two negroes were taken from the Greenbrier county jail here early today and lynched by a mob of about 60 men.

They were hanged from the cross arms of a telephone pole on the Midland trail, and several volleys of shots were fired into their bodies.

The two, Tom Jackson, 25, and George Banks, 27, had been arrested November 22, at Leslie, W. Va., in connection with the killing of Constable Joseph Myles and Jack Brown, a companion, who had gone to a negro dance at Leslie to order the dancers to be more quiet. As they left the dance hall they were shot with a shot gun. Myles died instantly but Brown lived for a short time.

SCIENTIFIC SELECTION OF IMMIGRANTS URGED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(P)—Scientific selection of immigrants was recommended today by Harry E. Hull, commissioner general of immigration, in his annual report to Secretary Doak.

The commissioner would have consular officers empowered to select immigrants needed during labor shortages here.

WIFE OF VETERAN GIVEN TWO YEARS

Despite the fact that she asserted she had stolen articles to support her husband, a wounded veteran of the World War, and that they were in destitute circumstances, Mrs. R. J. Sims, of Roswell, was given a sentence of two years Thursday in Fulton superior court on indictment charging burglary.

She was indicted in two bills, and entered a plea of guilty to burglary.

ing the home of Miss Loyola McGinnis, 105 Rumson road, and the apartment of Miss K. D. Collier, 71 Thirteenth street, N. E. She told the court she had been selling flowers but that when she failed to sell them she walked into these homes and took clothing in an effort to help the destitute condition of her husband and herself. She was given 12 months on each indictment, to be served in succession. Her husband, jointly indicted with her, did not enter a plea. It was stated, however, that a special plea of insanity will be made later in the week.

Official Atlanta Thursday gave its warmest welcome to the twenty-millionth Ford as it raced into Atlanta to the reception at the city hall. Those shown grouped around the car on the left front row, left to right, are John Paschall, managing editor of the Journal; Adjutant General Charles H. Cox, Baxter Maddox, Frank Shaw, secretary of the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce; John Wilson, secretary of state; Mayor James L. Key, Miss Louise Robert, sponsor and daughter of L. W. (Chip) Robert, Atlanta engineer and sponsor of the parade; Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. Grouped at the right are officials of the Ford Motor Company and other members of the official party, including John K. Otley, president of the First National bank; W. B. Crowley, vice president of the Fulton National bank; H. Lane Young, vice president of the Citizens and Southern National bank; Major Clark Howell Jr., business manager of The Constitution; Herbert Porter, vice president and publisher of the Georgian-American.

Fulton National bank; H. Lane Young, vice president of the Citizens and Southern National bank; John Paschall, managing editor of the Atlanta Journal; Major Clark Howell, business manager of The Atlanta Constitution; Herbert Porter, business manager of the Atlanta Georgian; J. S. Wood, Atlanta branch manager of the Ford Motor Company; C. E. Freeman, Ernest G. Boudry, Robert Ingram, William Grant, Clyde Langford, Ben B. White and Monroe Siegel, the latter Ford dealers in Atlanta. Following the exercises at the city hall, the party were guests of Ford Motor Company officials at a luncheon at the Biltmore hotel.

Motion pictures and "stills" were made in front of the city hall and as the car made its way through Atlanta's busiest sections. They will be placed in the Ford museum at Greenfield Village, Dearborn, Mich., and preserved for posterity along with the first Ford.

The car left Atlanta about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon to visit Fairburn and the night was spent at Newman. Officials pointed out that the rapid progress of the company is shown by the fact that the millionth mark in production was not passed until 1915, but that the car which paraded the streets Thursday was the twenty-millionth one assembled by the company.

TENNESSEE SENATE PASSES NEW TAX BILL

Measure Modeled After Arkansas Law Is Sent to House.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 10. (AP)—A graduated income tax bill, modeled after an Arkansas law, was passed by the Tennessee senate late today and sent to the house.

Single persons would be allowed $1,200 exemption and heads of families $2,500, with an additional $300 exemption for each dependent. The levy on the first $2,500 of net income would be 1 per cent and this would be graduated upward until it reached 5 per cent on incomes in excess of $15,000.

A flat 4 per cent rate would apply to earnings of corporations, but credit would be given for the corporation excise tax of 3 per cent, making an increase of only 1 per cent.

Sponsors of the bill estimated it would yield around $1,500,000 annually, but emphasized that its primary purpose at this time was to test out the constitutionality of a graduated tax levy. If upheld by the supreme court, they pointed out that the next legislature could readjust the rates to increase the yield.

The tax would apply to 1931 incomes and would be payable before August 15, 1932.

Proxy Receives '31 Nobel Award For Jane Addams and Dr. Butler

OSLO, Norway, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Nobel prize was awarded today to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, and Miss Jane Addams, Chicago social worker, "two of the finest representatives of the most vital idealism in the world."

The recipients were so described by Halvdan Koht, noted historian, who made a presentation address in which he declared the United States was presenting the world with some of its most vital idealism.

Neither Dr. Butler nor Miss Addams was present. Hoffman Phillips, American minister to Norway, represented them at the ceremony, which was attended by King Hakon, Crown Prince Olaf, foreign diplomats, cabinet members, high state officials and other notables.

Dr. Koht said the United States stood foremost among the nations to which the prize has gone. France, he recalled, has won the award six times, and today's presentation brought the American score to seven.

He praised Miss Addams for the excellent qualities she brought to her labors in behalf of world peace, and credited Mr. Butler with having helped swing American public opinion for cooperation with France in the outlawing of war.

MISS ADDAMS, DR. BUTLER WELL KNOWN FOR WORKS

Miss Addams, an internationally known pacifist, is president of Hull House, in Chicago, and long has been an active leader in the field of social service. She was one of the early sponsors of social legislation, and of laws forbidding child labor. At present she is undergoing treatment at the Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore.

Miss Addams is a staunch prohibitionist although she has been critical of enforcement efforts. She was a member of the Ford peace party and last fall headed a delegation which presented to President Hoover a petition signed by 150,000 women, favoring the limitation of armaments.

Last May she was awarded by Bryn Mawr the $5,000 M. Carey Thomas prize for her work in fighting poverty, disease and delinquency among the "needy, afflicted and misunderstood."

Mr. Butler for many years has been active in efforts for world peace. As president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace he has interviewed the statements of many countries, and together with Aristide Briand had an important part in the creation of the Kellogg peace pact. He is a vigorous opponent of the prohibition laws.

The university president's labors in behalf of international accord have won him decorations from many countries. He is said to have a wider acquaintance among foreign statesmen than any other private citizen.

THREE GERMANS SHARE OTHER NOBEL AWARDS

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 10. (AP)—Three German scientists received today from King Gustave the 1931 Nobel prizes in chemistry and medicine.

The chemistry award was split by Dr. Carl Bosch and Dr. Friedrich Bergius for their success in assisting industry with their discoveries. Professor Otto Warburg won the medicine prize for his studies of the fermentation process involved in respiration. Each of the two prizes amounted to about $31,100.

The 1931 prize in literature was awarded posthumously to the late poet and secretary of the Swedish academy, Erik Axel Karlfeldt.

CONCENTRATION OF GOLD RECOMMENDED BY BUTLER

NEW YORK, Dec. 10. (AP)—Urging the eventual concentration of all the world's gold in an international bank, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, today acknowledged the award to him of half the Nobel peace prize, and laid out a program, mainly economic, to foster peace.

Dr. Butler and Jane Addams, founder of Hull House, jointly were awarded the prize, valued at $40,000.

"War is all over," said Dr. Butler. "All the nations have to do is keep their promises. War is all over unless nations are liars."

He assailed Senator Hiram Johnson's effort to prevent a continuance of the debt moratorium.

Graphic Arts Body Hears Col. Viner In Business Talk

Colonel Joseph W. Viner, vice president of the International Printing Ink Corporation, Thursday night addressed the Atlanta graphic arts group.

Colonel Viner is a close student of history and economics, and has just returned from an extensive tour of South America, where his firm has large interests.

He pictured conditions there as exceedingly encouraging despite the political unrest, and predicted a great future for a large majority of the countries, telling the Atlantans that the field is open to progressive men "with an idea to sell."

He advised the group to prepare for South America's business.

The economic depression or readjustment, as he called it, he blamed on the World War and its aftermath. He said the depression began in Europe, spread to the United States and now has circled the globe.

LeRoy Pettit, manager of the Whitaker Paper Company, presided at the meeting held at the Atlanta Athletic Club. He was chairman of the entertainment committee. Councilman Raymond Curtis, Atlanta manager for Colonel Viner's firm, was another member of the committee. Platt Young, of the Lyon-Young Printing Company, responded to Colonel Viner's address. About 100 attended.

Snows Block Travel Over High Sierras

DENVER, Col., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Severe snowstorms in the high Sierra ranges of the west today blocked most travel.

United States highway No. 20 over Donner summit in the high Sierra mountains of Nevada was closed after the disturbance reached blizzard proportions. Snow was falling in Reno, Nev., today.

One of the most severe snowstorms in recent years howled over the San Juan basin of Colorado. Three feet of snow fell at Durango. Hundreds of cattle and sheep were threatened with starvation.

A storm which yesterday forced airplanes to the ground at Salt Lake City was believed breaking late today.

Metropolitan Star Missing in New York

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Santa Biondo, 28, lyric soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, disappeared today after dropping letters into the mail which, newspapers said, threatened suicide.

Officials of the opera company said she had not been seen since last night. They received a telephone call this morning from a man who said Mrs. Biondo would be unable to appear for her part in "La Notte di Zorina." The soprano, who had never seemed depressed, was always friendly with everyone but seemed to have no intimates.

to get Dailey for the Lichtenstein slaying, and that Mrs. Davis went with her to the courthouse and pointed out Dailey to the grand jury.

Mrs. Gann said that she expressed the fear to Mrs. Davis that she would get in trouble over her part in the "frame-up." Mrs. Gann said that Mrs. Davis is the wife of Lee Bunch, who was sentenced for robbing a drug game in a local hotel, and that Bunch is a brother of J. D. Lee.

Solicitor-General Boykin said that the entire case, including the alleged part of Helen Davis, will be presented to the grand jury today.

Mrs. Gann, in her first statement, said that she was invited by Dailey to dress where he was "going to rob a rich man and spill blood if necessary." In her second statement, she denied that she even knew Dailey, and said that she had been led by the Davis woman into framing Dailey.

In the hearing before Judge Ether-

ide, Mrs. Gann denied that officers who obtained the second statement had given her a third degree or had mistreated her.

Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant Thursday said that Dailey has a perfect alibi for his whereabouts on the night of the Lichtenstein slaying. Witnesses have told the officers that Dailey was at home playing cards with them, and that his car was not available to him on the night of the slaying, Sturdivant said.

Both Lee and Mrs. Davis Thursday night denied Mrs. Gann's statement that Mrs. Davis is the wife of Lee Bunch and that Bunch and J. D. Lee are brothers.

Mrs. Davis said that he has only one brother, who at present is in Los Angeles. Mrs. Davis said that a remark by her to the effect that Lee and Bunch look enough alike to be brothers probably was responsible for Mrs. Gann's statement.

Mrs. Davis said that Mrs. Gann came to her with the story told in her first affidavit, and believing the story of her ride with Dailey to be true, she took Mrs. Gann to Attorney Powell. Mrs. Davis said that she accompanied Mrs. Gann to the courthouse, where Mrs. Gann saw Dailey and exclaimed, "That's the man I was with."

Mrs. Davis is the woman who recently told a story of being shot at by an unidentified assailant while she was bringing a letter to Attorney Powell from Bunch.

The county grand jury at its session today will get details of the latest chapter of the J. D. Lee case when Lee, Harry Kosnoffsky, his convicted accomplice, and others will be called on to testify concerning the charges that J. T. Dailey was at the scene of the killing of Bennie Lichtenstein, for whose murder Lee and Kosnoffsky are under sentence. Dailey was bound over to the grand jury on the testimony of Lucile Gann, upper left, who now admits her statements were false, asserting that Helen Davis, right, instigated an alleged plot against Dailey. In the inset is shown Lee A. Bunch, convicted bandit, a friend of the Davis woman. Dailey is shown below. Staff photos by George Corbett.

($428,500,000) less than was estimated while social expenditures rose 764,000,000 marks ($191,000,000) so that the country is roughly 2,500,000,000 marks ($625,000,000) worse off than at the beginning of the moratorium, he said.

BRUENING SEEKS 'HUMAN' REVISION

at socialism to be so extraordinarily high, it could at one blow remove this danger by helping Germany in a manner corresponding to the principle of humanitarianism.

He definitely implied that Germany will make every effort to rid itself of the reparations burden entirely, contending that the world would be helped as much as Germany herself.

"In times such as Germany has passed through in the last 17 and especially the last two years, it is self-evident that radical currents will come to the fore," he said.

"It is part of the German character to flee into the land of dreams in such times, and to chase after Utopias. The matter assumes importance only when leaders publish utterances in the form they did in recent days."

"I desire before you once more to underscore my radio remarks about national socialism and especially my references to legality. The government is determined to use the authority given it in the constitution in case illegality should be embarked upon."

"The government has the reins absolutely, tautly in hand. I speak not only for myself but also for the Reichsmaster of interior and defense."

Turning to the question of the emergency decree issued Tuesday evening, Dr. Bruening declared that if world depression and disorganization continue other nations will follow in Germany's footsteps.

The German nation, he said, now is forced to rely on itself entirely. This means the greatest sacrifices upon the whole people, the chamberlain declared, but he was confident they would bear their burden.

"We do not desire state capitalism but rather to keep way open for private capitalism," he explained. "We also are determined to avert another inflation at all costs."

"It is an extremely painful incision that has been made in our economic body, but there was nothing else to do in view of the world's situation."

Dr. Carl Goerdeler, the "price dictator" set up in the emergency decree, started his operations today at the Reich food ministry. All provincial authorities have been instructed to obey his orders.

Power has been given him to fix or alter the prices of necessities, to examine tradesmen's books and, at a moment's notice, to close the stores or business houses of those who infringe the regulations. Heavy fines or imprisonment are provided, with only one appeal to the Reich's economic tribunal, whose decision is final.

GERMAN'S "DESPERATION" DESCRIBED BY VON KROSIK
BASEL, Switzerland, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A desperate Germany, struggling to pull itself up by its bootstraps, was described today before the Young plan advisory committee.

Count Schwerin von Krosigk, chief of the budget department of the German finance ministry, kept the committee experts busy noting figures throughout the day while he explained what the emergency government was doing to save the country.

Although his explanation of the German budget failed to mention the effect of reparations on public finances in Germany, it was understood in unofficial quarters that the budget, which now shows a deficit, was drawn with an eye toward the new emergency decree.

"The last resources of the Reich have been utilized," the count said. "It no longer is possible to reduce expenditures or to increase taxes."

"The taxation yield is beginning to diminish. A fall in revenue by 1,600,000,000 marks (about $400,000,000) is anticipated. It is hoped this will be recompensed by the new turnover tax of 2 per cent."

"But the 1932-1933 expenses will tend to increase—largely because of the enormous interest on the floating debt. The fate of the budget depends on the economic situation and on the new emergency decree."

In the course of a summary that kept him talking the greater part of the day, the German expert reiterated several times that a profound impression had been caused in Germany by the government's latest emergency measures, promulgated to maintain the stability of the currency.

He said the 1931-1932 budget contained a deficit despite the measures already adopted, but it was hoped the decree would make balancing possible.

The presence of even a slight deficit would be more awkward for Germany than for any other country, he said, "because, in the present state of the money market, Germany would not be able to cover it by an issue of short-term treasury bonds."

Emergency decrees issued since the summer of 1930 will have resulted in economies of 4,000,000,000 reichsmarks (about $1,000,000,000), the German said.

He pointed out that 5,000,000 Germans are unemployed, 30 per cent of them receiving the dole under the federal insurance laws and 70 per cent receiving aid from the "crisis scheme" and local communities. Unemployment relief costs 1,000,000,000 reichsmarks, he reported.

The budget has been considerably diminished since the economic crisis hit Germany in 1929, the count told the members of the committee. The 1931-1932 income estimate was 9,120,000,000 reichsmarks. But it is now clear, he said, that the total will be less than 8,000,000,000, with estimates for next year falling to 7,200,000,000.

Emphasizing that the government has lost 2,000,000,000 reichsmarks revenue since 1929, the budget expert accounted for it by a 50 per cent drop in the return from the income tax.

an 80 per cent drop in the proceeds of the corporation tax, a general falling off in all direct and indirect levies, and increasing cost of unemployment relief.

He said the state governments had suffered equally with the national government, despite reduction in their expenditures of 15 to 25 per cent.

The technical subcommittee, which is checking Germany's resources abroad, continued with its comparison of the figures offered by Berlin and those submitted by other countries.

even the simplest housework. Six children, ages 2, 5, 8, 9, 11 and 12—six growing bodies to feed and care for. They cannot be permitted to go hungry and cold during long winter days and nights.

It isn't much to Atlanta, that $35 a month needed to place this family on a firm basis of existence. The $420 a year will rehabilitate the family and give the anxious and fear-driven mother an opportunity to regain her health.

Speak, Atlanta—speak with gold. Give of your blessings to these unfortunate and destitute. There has never been a more pitiful call than that which comes from this mother and her six little children.

Will you help?

AUTO DEALERS

Opportunities editor, of The Constitution, and the highest bidders will secure the cars.

Through the courtesy of Bernard V. Stodhill, manager of John Smith Company, and his corps of salesmen, the cars may be seen any day at the company showrooms at 536 West Peachtree street, N. W. Not only may they be seen, but they will be demonstrated to those who intend to submit bids. They are good used cars and worthy of the investigation of every person in the market for an automobile.

Opportunity No. 1 was printed in The Constitution Thursday morning and the two donations by the auto dealer and Mr. Whitman came in during the day.

In these columns today is printed Opportunity No. 2, another family in dire need of help from more fortunate people. There is untold misery and suffering in Atlanta and the emergency must be met in this and other cases.

From day to day during the next eight days other Opportunities will be presented. They must be cared for. The mails must become heavy with checks, bills and coins. Christmas is nearer and on the day of days, bleak hearts must be lightened.

A feature of the fund this year will be the Christmas shopping fund created for those destitute mothers who wish to buy some little things for their children. Your coins can be given to that fund. Think of the happiness it will bring to a mother to have the small amount of money needed, a couple of dollars, to buy a toy or a trinket for her child. Think of the happiness of the child Christmas morning.

Hearts must be opened and money must be given. You, and you, and you—all of us desire to aid. Let's start now, today! Mail your checks to the cashier at The Constitution and specify which family or fund is to receive the gift. Every penny will be spent as the donor instructs.

What do you say, Atlanta?

GERMAN FINANCES
SAID STILL WEAK

BERLIN, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Hermann Dietrich, finance minister, told the Reichstag budget committee today that the hope that the Hoover moratorium would place Germany's finances on a safe basis would be unfulfilled.

Thirty-Nine Organizations Entered in Charity Drive

With ten new churches entered since last Saturday, the close of the third period of the $6,000 Good Samaritan Buying Campaign, the number of churches and charities entered in the competition to stimulate buying and collections over a six-month period had reached 39, and indications are that by the close of the fourth period next Saturday night, the entries will number well above 40.

The period for the entry of churches and charities interested in sharing a part of the $6,000 to be divided during the six months' time of the drive is not limited and those organizations desirous of entering may do so at any time, though the earliest possible interest and entry is advised in view of the fact that the votes cast during each weekly phase are carried forward to the end, when the totals will determine the winner of the $1,200 first prize and the three other substantial cash awards offered in addition to the $150 distributed each week to the four churches or charities leading for the particular week.

Following is a complete list of the churches and charities now entered: Martha Brown Memorial, Mrs. Donald W. Bates, 671 Woodland, S. E., Main 0276. Sylvan Hills Methodist, Mrs. A. Jones. Pryor Street Methodist, Mrs. A. J. Dunslop, Raymond 7347; Mrs. L. A. Davis, Main 5104. Sardis Methodist church, Mrs. Drew Liddell, Cheshire road, route No. 8.

Apply This Once And Kill the Itch

A new preparation known as "Sit-icide," being a liquid, thoroughly penetrates the skin, going into every pore, crevice and wrinkle where parasites hide, and kills every one of these parasites with one application, in thirty minutes. Sit-icide is immediately effective in destroying parasitic itch (scabies) and is sold by all druggists at 60c, or sent direct upon receipt of price. Sit-icide Co., Inc., Commerce, Ga. (adv.)

Birthday Anniversary Celebrated by E. A. T.

The first anniversary of air passenger service between Atlanta and New York by Eastern Air Transport, Inc., was marked Wednesday. During the year the Eastern Air Transport system, which has Atlanta as its hub, carried approximately 30,000 passengers, 2,000 of which were from Atlanta.

Since the New York service was inaugurated three additional passenger lines have been added by Eastern Air Transport, to Florida, Charleston and Augusta.

Despite a general decrease in travel, the Atlanta-New York service developed so much traffic that the original five-passenger planes were unable to meet the demand, and 18-passenger planes were put in service three days a week.

Monday during the remainder of the campaign. On this page appears the individual advertisements of the 50 or more merchants and concerns of Atlanta and the national advertisers whose co-operation made the campaign possible.

Each individual advertisement describes what counts for votes, in some cases the cash prize, in others the sale of tickets, in others special printed coupons. In the case of national advertisers of food products, the labels, cartons, wrappers, bottle caps, etc., count for votes. In the case of cash register receipts, sales slips and coupons, these speak for themselves, for the vote value is one vote for each cent shown on the ticket, slip or token. In the case of the advertised brands, the vote value corresponds to the maximum retail value of the pack. If it is a package which has a maximum retail value of 15 cents, for example, when the label, wrapper, carton, etc., as the case may be, is used, it has a vote value of 15 regardless of its sales price at a lower figure, and regardless of wherever it is purchased. These may be purchased in any store in Atlanta and the tokens voted.

The voting periods will close at 6 o'clock each Saturday night, and all votes intended to be counted for the prize division of the week must be at headquarters, 337 Peachtree Avenue, by 6 o'clock Saturday night. However, it is not mandatory that any church or organization vote every week or every other week. The vote tokens are good any time they are cast in the campaign.

2 WOMEN JAILED ON LARCENY CHARGE

Two women who had crawled under a house to escape officers following their indictment on two counts Wednesday for larceny after trust were captured Thursday by DeKalb county officers. They were Mrs. H. T. Hinton, 42, and her mother, Mrs. Sallie Frederick, of 810 Highland avenue. At the time the women were indicted, bills were returned on 10 counts each against Mrs. Hinton's husband and E. N. Wilson. They were accused of entering houses and taking various articles of furniture and fixtures. When suspicion was directed at Hinton, his wife and her mother left his home at Clarkston and took up abode on Highland avenue, according to the officers. Mrs. Hinton's bond was set at $3,500 and that of Mrs. Frederick at $1,000. The two men were held under $5,000 bail.

PLANNING COMMISSION WILL BEGIN SURVEY

Renewed efforts to protect home owners of Atlanta will be made through studies of a special committee of the city planning commission, it became known Thursday. J. Houston Johnston, A. Ten Eyck Brown, Clarke Donaldson and Raymond W. Torzani are members of the committee which will begin its studies shortly.

The commission Thursday was on record as approving changes in the names of the following streets: Forrest avenue, between Fortune street and the eastern terminus, to be Willoughby way.

Spencer street, between 21st and Ashby streets, to be Thurmond street. Sciple street, between Tallapoosa and Ashby streets, to be Spencer street. Dorsey street, between Beckwith and Emory streets, to be Raymond street. Sylvan street, between Boynton street and the northern terminus, to be Fraser street.

TRUE BILLS ACCUSE 35 IN DEKALB COUNTY

Thirty-five indictments on felonious charges were returned by the DeKalb grand jury of the December term.

During the term salaries of employees in county offices were fixed at the same rate they have been in effect, with the exception of one clerk in the sheriff's office who was reduced $25 in his monthly wage.

The jury commended Commissioner C. A. Matthews for his work in reducing expenses and made several recommendations in connection with courthouse arrangements.

FORMER DEPUTY FREE IN DRY KILLING CASE

PENSACOLA, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP) A charge of manslaughter against Barney Wiggins, former chief deputy sheriff of Baldwin county, Alabama, was not-preserved in federal court here today on orders of Judge Sheppard for want of sufficient evidence.

Earl Hubbard, principal state and eye-witness to the killing of Monroe Foster, whose wife Wiggins was charged with slaying, was absent from the hearing and the state was unable to show if he would ever be found.

Wiggins was a member of a federal dry raiding party out of Mobile about two years ago which raided a still in Escambia county, Florida, near the Alabama line, and it is alleged that Foster ran away from an illicit still and was shot in the back and died from his wounds.

7 GOVERNORS ASK AID FOR COAL MINERS

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 10.—(AP) The governors of seven states today sent a joint telegram to John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, Washington, asking that organization to relieve distress in the bituminous coal mining areas of the nation.

The telegram was signed by Governors D. M. Miller, Alabama; Harvey Parnell, Arkansas; Arthur Seligman, New Mexico; George White, Ohio; William H. Murray, Oklahoma; George H. Deen, Utah, and Gifford Pinchot, Pennsylvania.

Father of 46 Children, Man Testifies in Court

William H. Warren, 61, of a Volberg street, N. W., address, testified before Judge Garland M. Watkins in juvenile court Thursday that he was probably the world's champion father. He said that he had been married five times and that he was the father of 46 children, the youngest being a girl of 10 years.

The occasion for his appearance in court was when County Policemen Davis and Dickerson made charges that the little girl was under insufficient and improper guardianship. The child was taken into custody of the court for placement in a new environment when testimony was introduced tending to show that the father gave the little girl a drink of whiskey on Thanksgiving Day and that subsequently she became drunk from other whiskey stolen by her from her brothers.

Seth Parker and His Neighbors Here for Big 'Gathering' Tonight

By following Emerson's "mouse-trap" advice, a young Yankee who will never be popularly known by his real name, but to millions of America as a kindly old codger called Seth Parker, will appear with his Jonesport cast for the first time before an Atlanta audience when he presents a two-hour portrayal of one of his famous "gatherings" at the City Auditorium at 8 o'clock tonight.

The appearance of the noted radio company is being sponsored by the Hapeville Baptist church. Phillips Lord, as Seth Parker, has appeared before congress in that role; he has been made a Kentucky colonel and has been lauded by Henry Ford, who said of him that "he is doing more good toward spreading real religion than any preacher alive; banishing the division of creeds and prejudice and welding the whole nation into a big group of neighbors."

The Seth Parker company is staying at the Atlanta Biltmore hotel. UNDERWRITERS TO HEAR RIEHLE SATURDAY NIGHT

Theodore Martin Riehle, vice president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Atlanta Association of Life Underwriters at 7:30 o'clock Saturday night in the Biltmore hotel. His subject will be "Cardinal Principles."

Mr. Riehle is associate manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society in New York city and is a member of the bar of the state of New York. Mr. Riehle has made many valuable contributions to the life insurance profession and his outstanding record as a salesman indicates that he has a broad knowledge of his subject, which concerns the fundamentals of selling life insurance.

South Must Cut 1933 Cotton Crop, Talmadge Avers

Virtually conceding that any hope of cotton relief legislation to curb next year's crop is past, proponents of the Long cotton ban are now concentrating on efforts to stop planting in 1933 and every seven years thereafter.

Eugene Talmadge, Georgia commissioner of agriculture, said Thursday that if prices next year remain as low in 1932 as they are today the nearest approach to prosperity for the farmers "will be for the states to get together and adopt the Long plan in 1933."

Talmadge has consistently advocated the Long plan since it was adopted in Louisiana. He has recently been in telephone conferences with southern commissioners and with Long.

Vesper Service.

The second annual all-university vesper service of the Atlanta University Laboratory High school will be held at 7 o'clock Sunday night at the Sisters' chapel, Spelman College. The program will include solo and group numbers, instrumental, choral and tableaux, under direction of Hale Woodruff. Lillian E. Webster will direct the music, and Kemper Herold, and Naomi Hayman will be among those on the program.

2 MEN SURRENDER TO SHERIFF'S WIFE

While a man hunt raged for four fugitives wanted by DeKalb county authorities, two of the hunted men voluntarily surrendered to Mrs. Jake Hall, wife of the sheriff, she said Thursday.

They were Richard Clayton, 26, wanted for questioning in connection with the death of John Chandler November 20, and Howard Williams, 19, in 1933 and every seven years thereafter.

a jail break in Decatur, Chandler's wife claimed she witnessed the fight between her husband and Clayton, in which Chandler was killed.

Williams, who had escaped with John H. McNabb and Howard Dease November 24, in surrendering to Mrs. Hall told her she had been good to him while he was confined and that he was tired of hiding, she said. Sheriff Hall said Thursday night the hunt for Dease and McNabb was still on and he hoped to capture them.

ROOSEVELT BACK FOR SPRING VISIT

Feeling Great, Says New York Governor, as He Leaves Georgia for Albany.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt is coming back to Georgia next April for a spring vacation—just at the time when, it appears now, everybody will be talking about another Roosevelt in the White House.

Early Thursday morning he quitted Warm Springs after the second installment of his fall vacation. He paused in Atlanta long enough for his train to pick up James A. Farley, New York state democratic chairman, and to greet friends who went to the terminal station to see him.

For perhaps the twenty-fifth time, he said he had nothing to say about the national outlook. "My stay at Warm Springs did me a world of good," he explained. "I am feeling great and I am coming back to Georgia just as soon as I can but it will be about the first of April before I am able to get away again. I have enough to do now being governor of the great state of New York."

Chairman Farley, who had been at Warm Springs Tuesday and who came to Atlanta Wednesday for a series of conferences with political leaders of

Liquor Consumption Declined on Decline

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 10.—(AP) E. P. Sanford, chief of the research bureau of the federal prohibition department, said in a speech before a state-wide prohibition meeting here tonight that both the sale and traffic in liquor has decreased since prohibition.

In 1912, he said, an equivalent of 22,000 gallons of liquor for every man, woman and child was withdrawn from the nation's warehouses tax paid. By 1930, consumption had decreased about 60 per cent, he said.

He quoted a New York police commissioner as saying that 32,000 speakeasies were operated in that city alone, and countered by saying, "It is in his power to close them within 24 hours if he is so inclined."

The same, he added, "can be said of any city in the United States."

The McKenzie-King bill passed by Canada in 1930, "has diverted rather than entirely stopped the smuggling of Canadian liquor into the United States," the speaker said.

the south, boarded the train with considerable information to impart to his chief.

Briefly, it was that the south will be for him in June and again in November. Farley left entirely satisfied that Roosevelt will be named the democratic standard-bearer on the first ballot and elected against Hoover or any other republican.

Lawrence Camp, Georgia democratic chairman; Mrs. Edgar Alexander, democratic national committeewoman from this state; Mrs. Z. V. Peterson and Mrs. W. R. Simpson, state executive committeewomen, were among those to shake hands with the New York governor at the train.

HOOVER BLOCKS PEACE IN SENATE

President Credited With Widening Party Breach by Rejecting Compromise.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—President Hoover today was credited with further widening the breach between progressive and conservative elements of his party by turning thumbs down on a carefully laid scheme of old guard leaders in the senate for smoothing over the fight of progressives against the re-election of Senator George Moses of New Hampshire, as president pro tempore of the senate.

The fight to oust Senator Moses, growing out of his "sons of the wild jackass" epithet buried at members of the progressive group, has now been going on three days. Several ballots were taken in the senate again today, but as the body adjourned for the week-end to meet again until Monday no break in the deadlock was in sight. It still remains to be seen whether Senator Moses or his democratic opponent, Senator Key Pittman, of Nevada, will be declared the winner. Progressive republicans continued to support members of their own group for the post, but among the principal contenders to command a majority.

The scheme which old guard republicans had put forward as a solution of the situation revolved around the election of Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, present majority leader, as president pro tem and the elevation of Senator McNary, of Oregon, to succeed to the leadership role.

Sensor McNary is counted among the milder senate progressives and his selection as republican leader would prove a sufficient concession to the obstreperous progressives for them to be good. Moreover, they would be achieving a great deal more than merely bringing about the elimination of Senator Moses.

Sensor Watson was willing to accept the position of president pro tem in lieu of his present office, as a harmony move, and Senator Moses was prepared to make the sacrifice in favor of his close friend from Indiana. Thus, it appeared that a happy solution of the three-day fight was in sight and the republicans again would be able to put up some semblance of party solidarity in the upper chamber.

When the program was laid before President Hoover, however, he put his foot down on the McNary end of the bargain, according to confidential admissions made at the capital today. He had no objection to Senator Watson relinquishing his leadership post to take the role of Mr. Moses, but the selection of Senator McNary as republican leader was something else. The reasons assigned to his action were not given but they can be easily imagined.

Almost to a man the progressives have been delivering hard blows to the White House since the beginning of the Hoover administration. While Senator McNary has not been as vehement perhaps as Norris, Brookhart, Nye and some of the others, he nevertheless has been counted as an administration critic. Added to the fact that he is indisputably catalogued among the progressives and the White House's reaction may be visualized.

The president's opposition to the Oregon senator is certain to antagonize the progressives. Where this antagonism may lead or end no one for the moment is prepared to say. It seems safe to predict, however, that

On the Air Today

Beginning tonight, the March of Time, one of the outstanding Columbia features, will be broadcast for the first time by a Georgia station when it is heard from 7:30 to 8 o'clock over WGST, Atlanta.

Each week six to eight of the outstanding news events, gathered from the four corners of the earth, are re-enacted and presented in dramatic form. The March of Time employs a larger cast than any other radio drama, there sometimes being over 50 players. In addition to the large group of actors, an 18-piece symphony orchestra is used to furnish the "musical curtain." Concert Master Howard Barlow is allotted a maximum of 15 seconds between acts in order to close off one and fix the locale and correct emotional atmosphere for the next one. The sound effects experts are used to augment the realism of the production.

On the broadcast of tonight one scene will be devoted to the activities of Adolf Hitler, a leader of the national-socialist party, and the German situation. Hitler's recent threats to assume control of the German reich have given a severe jolt to the already difficult international situation.

Another act will present the opening of the United States congress and will include the election of Garner, of Texas, to the speakership of the house as well as the reaction of political Washington to the messages from President Hoover.

Mahatma Gandhi will be featured in the third scene of world news interest. The disappointing conclusion of the second round table conference and the results of its failure both in Great Britain and India will be portrayed during the March of Time.

Irving Jaffee, of New York, the only representative of the United States to win a first place in the Olympic games held at St. Moritz, Switzerland, in 1928, will be interviewed by Ted Husing over the WABC-Columbia network via WGST from 4:45 to 5 o'clock this afternoon on the first of a new series of weekly broadcasts to be known as the "Olympic Games Interviews."

Thomas E. Campbell, president of the civil service commission, and ex-governor of Arizona, will present the fourth of the Vocational Guidance talks offered by the American School of the Air from 1:30 to 2 o'clock this afternoon. Addressing pupils in the high schools throughout the United States, Campbell will speak on "Civil Service," describing the qualifications and requirements necessary to enter this field and will explain what positions are open to girls as well as boys.

MRS. CRAWFORD GIVES SPECIAL WJTL FEATURE

One of the outstanding features to be presented over WJTL tonight will be the program sponsored by Lillian Crawford, which features program arrangements over the Atlanta stations have won her wide popularity among listeners. An entire hour has been set aside for Mrs. Crawford's presentations, which she has divided into two features.

The first will be a 30-minute program of negro spirituals by the West Side Harmonizers, a negro quintet, which is in widespread demand among civil organizations. This program will begin at 9:45 p. m. At 10:15 Mrs. Crawford's Rhythm Ramblers will present a half hour of dance melody under the direction of Munn and Mrs. Crawford.

NORMA SHEARER READY TO BECOME AMERICAN

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP) Norma Shearer, film star, a native of Montreal, Canada, need only appear briefly tomorrow in the United States district court to become a citizen of the United States. Her final papers await her at the naturalization bureau.

The process was simplified by her marriage to Irving Thalberg, motion picture executive and United States citizen.

TAMMANY ACCUSED OF BALKING INQUIRY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Ho-Steadier committee, charged at today's committee session that Tammany public officials were nullifying the work of the investigation by virtually preventing prosecution of officials exposed as having been derelict in their duties.

Seabury's charges featured a torrid session wherein a policeman revealed existence of a "Liberty League" through which speakeasy proprietors were protected, and at which Burton

W. Wilson, attorney for Mayor Walker's missing personal representative, Russell T. Sherwood, denied he knew Sherwood's whereabouts.

Counsel Seabury charged that all district attorneys in the city were Tammany men, that Attorney-General John J. Bennett Jr., was "ultra-friendly" to Tammany, and that for this reason it was proving all but impossible to get prosecution of persons exposed before the committee.

STARS PAY TRIBUTE TO LILLIAN LEITZEL

LONG BEACH, Cal., Dec. 10.—(AP)

Stars of the screen, stage and of the sawdust ring paid their final respects here today to the memory of Lillian Leitzel, renowned acrobat, killed last February while performing in Copenhagen.

The Rev. Perry G. M. Austin, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal church, read the funeral service. Miss Leitzel's ashes were brought to Long Beach last May by Miss Mabel Goule, a friend of the acrobat. Floral offerings from over the entire world were received by Alfredo Codona, husband of Miss Leitzel.

Following the service a marble monument, sculptured in Italy, was unveiled in Inglewood cemetery.

it will easily extend into the forthcoming presidential campaign.

In the meantime senate democrats are sitting, by thoroughly enjoying themselves over the republican squabble. They cannot help point to the contrast of the two parties in congress, emphasized by the solid democratic ranks put up in both the house and the senate.

It is impossible to tell yet what the outcome of the republican squabble may be, but it still may be in the cards that democratic organization of the upper chamber may result. The policy of democratic leaders is not to take over organization control unless it is thrust upon them, feeling that the party should not be charged with responsibility of organization so long as the republicans have a paper majority of one, even though actually it will be difficult for the latter to command a majority of one.

GENERAL PARTY SHAKEUP LOOMS FOR REPUBLICANS WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP) Perplexed senate republican leaders today called senate sessions off until Monday in an effort to break by negotiation the deadlock over the re-election of George Moses, of New Hampshire, as president pro tempore.

With the western independents standing firm against Moses and the "young guard" of the party growing restless at the senate's failure to organize and get down to work, a party reorganization was threatened.

More more ballots failed to bring any change in the lineup of the silent forces in this strange personal senate contest. Again not a word of debate was uttered. It was just voting.

The "young guard" proposed during a round of informal conferences that the veteran Senator Watson, of Indiana, the party leader, be advanced as a compromise candidate to replace Moses. It was further proposed that the popular McNary, of Oregon, be made the leader, in event of this step.

But Watson put his foot down on the movement and after adjourning the session arranged for a series of conferences over the week-end.

The twelve western independents again voted for other regions and in fact, preventing an election since a majority is necessary. Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, after voting three times with the twelve switched to Moses on the last ballot.

The row over the presidency problem is the unfinished business of the senate and there is plenty of important work due for consideration next week. The independents believe this will force Moses to withdraw.

The independents whom Moses referred to as the "sons of the wild jackass" when they went into a coalition with the democrats on the tariff last session have stood firm on 11 ballots.

So has Moses and to all purposes he intends to sit it out. He holds the office until a successor is elected.

Some of the "young guard" element are reported to be threatening to absent themselves thus giving the democratic candidate a majority. However, this seems to be a threat to force the regular leaders to take action.

Sensor Watson today informed Senator Moses he would call no party conference for consideration of the dispute without the move coming from Moses himself.

ANDERSON HEADS POLICE SOCIETY

Detective W. J. Anderson was elected president of the Atlanta Police Relief Association at a meeting at the police station Thursday night.

Other officers for 1932 named were Patrolman Howard Turner, vice president, and Lieutenant L. J. Carroll, secretary, was re-elected. He was opposed by former Patrolman R. A. Rakestraw, retired, while Carroll was the only man to stand for vice president. Anderson defeated Traffic Officer Roy Edlennan and succeeded Patrolman John Lasseter as head of the association.

RECEIVERS NAMED FOR DEANS ESTATE

Two Lawyers Appointed by Court To Temporarily Handle Property.

The legal fight over the estate of the late Robert E. Deans, Atlanta broker, Thursday assumed a new angle when Judge E. D. Thomas appointed a temporary receiver for the estate and granted a temporary injunction to prevent Mrs. Frances K. Leuchtenberg, of Detroit, present heir, from altering the status of the property or disposing of any of it. Hearing was set for December 19.

The action came as the result of a petition for a receiver and injunction brought against Mrs. Leuchtenberg by G. E. Couse, of Detroit, and filed in Fulton superior court Thursday by Ralph Pharr, attorney. Mrs. Leuchtenberg is in the city in the interest of litigation over the estate. Couse sets out that the estate is indebted to him for a loan of $7,750 and interest, and that the late Frank Deans, who died in Detroit last week, was the one to whom the loan was made. He alleges further that Deans deeded all of his property to his mother, Mrs. Leuchtenberg to defeat Couse and other debtors.

Frank Deans received the estate of Robert E. Deans under a second will by the latter, who died in 1925. At the death of Frank Deans his property went to his mother. Other relatives sought Wednesday to break this will and have a first will declared legal, but Judge Humphries refused to admit it to probate. It is understood that the younger Deans had a second will declared legal after litigation in the courts.

Hugh Howell and R. E. Gardner, Atlanta attorneys, were named as the temporary receivers of the estate by Judge Thomas Thursday when, in his petition, Couse set out that the late Frank Deans was the administrator of the estate and that since his death there has been no administrator.

Emory Glee Club To Present Carols Sunday Afternoon

A program of Christmas carols and other sacred music will be presented in the Glenn Memorial church at Emory University next Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock by the Emory Glee Club. This hour of Christmas music, coupled with a regular Christmas service to be conducted by Dr. Wallace Rogers, pastor of the Glenn church, is an annual event at Emory.

Dr. Malcolm H. Dewey, director of the Glee Club and orchestra, is in charge of the program, which will combine the singing of over 50 voices with the accompaniment of the organ and other instrumental music. This will be the tenth such program to be offered for an Atlanta audience.

Hugh Hodgson, Atlanta pianist and organist, will open the program with an organ prelude.

REPAIRS ON TOYS AID UNEMPLOYED

Ensign Fred Foster, of the Salvation Army, Thursday enrolled his first unemployed men and women at the "Toy Shop" in the basement of Army headquarters at 54 Ellis street, for rehabilitation work as the second phase of the Christmas campaign of the Atlanta Better Films committee and the woman's division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The toys, collected through Atlanta public school children and with other donated playthings, are to be repaired and distributed to needy children at Christmas through the Army and the Family Welfare Society.

Actual work began Thursday on rehabilitation including a large number of dolls which are being dressed at the Salvation Army emergency lodge for women on Washington street. Mrs. Louis Elias, chairman of a joint committee in charge of the campaign, said the response has been excellent, but that still more toys are needed.

Donors may call Ensign Fred Foster at Salvation Army headquarters and a truck will call for the toys if they cannot be taken to the "toy shop."

MUSIC STUDY GROUP WILL MEET SUNDAY

The music study group of Studio Club will hold the regular musical evening and sandwich supper in the clubrooms, 104 1-2 Forsyth street, N. W., at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night, according to Mrs. Andrew Fairlie, chairman. Mrs. Joseph Lee Edwards will give the feature of the program, a sketch of Marguerite from "Faust," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Charles Chalmers.

Mrs. Edwards, who was formerly Miss Augusta Dearborn, of Birmingham, Ala., is noted for her lyric soprano voice and has studied with eminent teachers in New York and Birmingham.

CHRISTMAS PARTY PLANNED BY SCHOOL

Christmas will begin for students of Atlanta Opportunity school next Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. auditorium when an elaborate Yule tree will be decorated and placed on display by faculty members and students. Candy, gifts and fruits will be distributed by Santa Claus.

A contest is under way to select a Santa Claus and the student who receives the largest number of votes for the honor by Tuesday will be acclaimed official Santa. Orchestra music for the Christmas party will be furnished by Charlie Black and his musicians, and a program of carols will be sung by the students, directed by L. G. Nilson, public schools music supervisor.

Throw Away Your Corn Plasters

Here's a better way to keep those miserable, stinging, painful corns from hurting! That gets rid of the corns themselves—without drawing a drop of blood! No cutting, no pulling out, no pumicing.

Just rub your corns briskly with Moore's Emerald Oil at bedtime, if you want to get rid of them quickly. Binding the part with a cloth soaked in the oil will further speed the process.

Takes the sting right out—soothes your tortured feet at once. Corns won't hurt next day, either. And in a day or two they'll all be gone for good. They just shrivel up and scale off—as easy as anything.

Jacob's Pharmacy Co. says they won't bother you any more but money back if they do.—(adv.)

Time To Light Trees Nearing; LaGrange Club To Spread Cheer

BY BEN COOPER

If you have not given thought to the little matter of lighting a living tree this Christmas, now is the time to pause for a moment and consider the good cheer you can spread with illuminated shrub trees.

Christmas is two weeks from today, and it's high time that you lay plans for lighting up. Don't put it off any longer, but make the arrangements now for a joyous Yuletide made even better by letting the other folks admire your Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Chip Robert, of 137 Fifteenth, N. E., joined the Light the Living Tree movement Thursday by promising to light a tree on their lawn.

E. P. Jester, of 1180 Arden avenue, S. W., announced that he has been with the movement ever since it started and this Christmas he will follow his custom and light a living tree.

Good news came from LaGrange, where the garden section of the LaGrange Women's Club announced that it will sponsor a Lighted Living Christmas tree contest during the holiday season. The number of beautiful gardens and homes in LaGrange makes the contest particularly suitable for that city, it was said.

Let's give Old Man Depression a parting kick by making this the best Christmas ever celebrated by the Light the Living Tree movement. If you are willing to do your part, call the Constitution, Walnut 8505, or the Camp Fire Girls, Walnut 3738, and let Atlanta know about it.

FLORIDA'S FINANCES SHOW IMPROVEMENT

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Dec. 10.—(P)—State Treasurer W. V. Knott today reported that Florida's treasury balance on November 30 was $4,950,827.64 as compared to a balance of $4,574,175.12 on October 31.

The treasurer reported November receipts as $2,007,098.88 and November disbursements as $1,421,496.36.

EXPERT TEA TASTER VISITOR IN ATLANTA

Life is just one big tea party for George F. Mitchell, a visitor in Atlanta today. For Mr. Mitchell averages 100 cups of tea a day—nearly a million during his lifetime—as he goes about his daily work as a professional tea-taster in New York. Incidentally, this tea expert says that he never swallows the brew while tasting it officially.

Mr. Mitchell, who is in charge of production, Maxwell House tea division, General Foods Corporation, is here conferring with his company's local representatives and customers. For 19 years he was supervising tea examiner for the government. He was a member of the board of tea experts for 20 years. He has probably had more experience in growing, manufacturing and buying tea than any other person in the United States.

Tea-tasting, though little known as a means of livelihood, is an ancient art, according to Mr. Mitchell. It is one of the few arts which has not been mechanized in this machine-age of ours.

In his work as tea-taster, Mr. Mitchell has the responsibility of keeping the blend of his brand accurate at all times. Due to the fact that virtually no two shipments of tea are exactly alike when received by manufacturers it may be readily appreciated what consummate skill is required in this business of tea-tasting.

He tests by taste every lot of tea invoiced to his company and similarly checks the completed blend when it is ready for the market. He expertly appraises the flavor and bouquet of innumerable varieties, making sure of how much of seven or eight samples he will use to match the original formula. Mr. Mitchell gauges these ingredients accurately—in 1,200-pound lots. He can tell the difference between the first and second picking of Bona leaves as readily as the average person can differentiate between milk and buttermilk.

Tea is highly water sensitive, says Mr. Mitchell. "No single blend can be universally good. As a result, tea should be blended to suit varying water conditions. So far as possible our tea is blended to suit the water in the locality where it is to be used. A deep color in tea liquor does not necessarily mean strength." Mr. Mitchell said in discussing the brewing of tea. "Too many people drink tea with the eye instead of by taste. They dilute it and spoil it."

Although tea consumption in this country is increasing, according to Mr. Mitchell, less than three-quarters of a pound per person is being used this year. The south, New England and New York city are the big tea markets of America, he said.

COUNTY AID SOUGHT IN WHITE PROJECTS

Co-operation of Atlanta and Fulton county will be sought at council's next session on two improvements, it was announced Thursday by Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward.

Construction of an underpass beneath Southern railway tracks at North avenue, and widening of Highland avenue five feet on each side of the street from Harris street to the Southern railway bridge are the two projects which White will seek.

He proposes that financial assistance of the Southern railway be sought in the underpass and that the city set up $100,000 for that purpose. Fulton county is asked to stand the entire expense of the Highland avenue improvement in his proposals.

UNIVERSITY AUDITS WILL BE READY SOON

Audits of the University of Georgia and its 28 separate branches will be completed as early in the new year as possible in order to make them available for the board of regents which takes over the system, under the reorganization law, January 1. The state's fiscal year begins January 1 and audits of the institutions as of December 1 are to be rushed to facilitate the general transformation. Under the reorganization, the state auditor's office will make about 1,500 additional audits annually.

Smoke a FRESH cigarette

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

It did not take the public long to register how keenly it was wanting a fresh cigarette.

Camel sales started soaring almost from the day the Camel Humidor Pack began to carry air-sealed Camel quality fresh to the smoker.

But the Humidor Pack would mean no more to Camels than it would mean to any other cigarette if Camels were not made fresh to start with.

Camels are made fresh, their natural moisture and delicate flavor vigilantly safeguarded—because the fine

Turkish and mild sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos of which they are blended are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

Treat yourself to a pack of fresh Camels—see the difference their cool, smooth, throat-friendly mildness means to smoking pleasure.

Switch to cigarettes that are truly fresh for just one day—then leave them—if you can.

Claudio Muzio Sings in Atlanta At Wesley Memorial Dec. 14

When Claudio Muzio, world-famous dramatic soprano and member of the Chicago Opera Company, appears in concert in Atlanta Monday evening, December 14, at 8:30 o'clock, in Wesley Memorial auditorium, presented by the Civic Music Association and sponsored by the Atlanta Music Club, there will be numbered among the audience many who will vividly recall the brilliant performances she made in Atlanta with the Metropolitan Opera Company many seasons ago.

In 1917, April 24, she appeared in the matinee, Verdi's "Il Trovatore," singing "Leonora," and creating a sensation with her lovely voice. The same year, April 26, she gave an overwhelmingly brilliant performance of the name role in Puccini's "Tosca," singing with the great Caruso. Two years later, in 1919, Muzio again appeared in Atlanta as "Aida" in Verdi's opera of the same name. Again she received an ovation for her outstanding performance.

It is interesting to note that in the issue of The Constitution of Thursday, April 24, 1919, Miss Louise Dooly, well-known musician and critic who lived in Atlanta at that time, said of Muzio in "Aida": "The singers were a goodly company. Claudio Muzio, the young soprano who sang in Atlanta in her debut two years ago, when her success was one of the features of the season, has grown in artistic stature. Youth and grace and beauty are added to make her 'Aida' an appealing and outstanding achievement. Her impassioned beauty compared well with the mature art, the exquisite voice of the 'Amneris' of Matzenauer."

Miss Dooly further says: "The trial of Aida by Amneris when the love of the royal slave is revealed for the first time, provided a duo which was a duel, too, with the art and beauty of the young soprano arrayed against the beauty and the art of the majestic contralto. In the Nile scene Muzio presented the finest work she has ever done in Atlanta, not excepting her 'Tosca,' its tenderness, its poignancy not surpassed in senuous sweetness by her work in the final duo with Lazzaro in the tomb."

This interesting bit of appreciation of Muzio's art was gleaned from Miss Nana Tucker's rare and valuable scrapbook.—MOZELLE HORTON.

Miss Betsy Weyman Assists at Tea.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Dec. 10.—Miss Betsy Weyman, of Atlanta, Ga., assisted at a tea and reception given at the Temple school, 331 Riverside drive, Tuesday afternoon, at which Colonel Fitzhugh Lee Minnigerode, of the New York Times, addressed the gathering. Miss Weyman is one of the most popular students in the school and is very active in the social and student endeavors in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Odum To Celebrate Their 60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Odum, beloved pioneer residents of Atlanta, will celebrate their sixtieth wedding anniversary Saturday, December 12, at their home, 289 Norwood avenue, N. E. These well-known citizens were married December 12, 1871, in Jonesboro, Ga., Mrs. Odum having been before her marriage Miss Mattie Estes, of Jonesboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Odum lived in Jonesboro several years after their marriage, but moved to Atlanta in 1892 and have watched this city progress from a village to a city blessed with towering skyscrapers and more than 350,000 inhabitants. The rare privilege of celebrating 60 years of happy wedded life is granted to few couples and is deserving of many congratulations. Mr. Odum is 80 years old and Mrs. Odum is 76, but their years belie their ages, for they are exceedingly active and youthful. They are members of Kirkwood Baptist church, having worshipped in the church for 21 years. Seven children, 20 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren are the result of this happy union, the children of Mr. and Mrs. Odum being Mrs. Minnie O. Campbell, of Sarasota, Fla.; Mrs. Sara O. Morgan and E. C. Odum and R. L. Odum, of Chicago, Ill.; E. L. Odum, of Miami, Fla.; E. H. Odum and C. B. Odum, of Atlanta.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

I am twenty-four and a member of a family of six. My mother died when I was three. When you have five sisters and father to make all decisions for you because you are the youngest of the family, you not only have to realize that the habit is hurting you but you have to learn to strike out for yourself and learn to guide your own destiny. Family and friends can do a lot of harm when they have the best intentions toward you. They all irritated me but they didn't disrupt my happiness, for they all loved me and I loved them. One by one the sisters got married and after staying at home with father a few years I moved away to another town to stay with one married sister. My brother-in-law has been awfully good to me and I am devoted to him. I blame myself for being in this situation but I feel I must do something to get myself out of it. I am a terrible expense to my sister and her husband. When they go to a movie they feel they must take me, and in addition to the expense in connection with my board and keep there are many expenses like that one which they must bear. I feel that I ought to go back home where I won't cost them so much. Yet every time I discuss going my sister says she hates for me to leave her and so I stay on a little longer. What ought I to do?

ANSWER: The only wrong that cannot be righted is the one that is not recognized. You recognize that your life is on a wrong basis, therefore you should make it over on a right one. The fact that your father and sisters and friends made decisions for you and protected you from the stress of life is no excuse for your becoming a permanent parasite upon any one of them. A girl of twenty-four should be out in the world making her own living. If she has no training she should get it. If she has no capital to invest in the training she should borrow it from her brother-in-law. It would be more economical for him to lend the amount for some course than to assume the full support of her for an indefinite period. The same thing would be true of her father.

No young husband should be burdened with the financial support of an in-law sister who has health and strength and ordinary intelligence. It isn't morally right to impose such a burden on him. And you will not be content and happy so long as you are party to such an outrageous imposition. Your problem is not what you think it is: whether to stay where you are and sponge on a sister, or to go home and sponge on a father. Your problem is how to get the necessary education for getting and holding a job. The very fact that all your family have been so good to you should lead you into getting out and showing them that you are worthy of the love and care they have lavished upon you.

You see you are not only imposing a tax on the finances of your sister and brother but you are doing an injury to your own moral stamina. In a few more years you will be incapable of making a decision for yourself, so confirmed will you be in your parasitism. And if there is one type more contemptible than another it is the man or woman who spends their life depending on the generosity of indulgent friends and relatives. Work does something for the brain and the character as well as for the pocket book. It ministers to independence and to self-respect. I was recently talking to an official of one of the biggest corporations of this country about the importance of work in the lives of young men and women. Said he: "No matter what I have when my children reach maturity, I am going to see to it that each of them has first-hand acquaintance with hard work. I intend to say to them 'now justify the expenditure that I have made by getting to work and making some money in your own right.' If a rich man, who is rich in his own right, and by virtue of hard work, feels the necessity of putting his own boys and girls through the mill, it is high time some of the lesser successful ones took the same route.

Some of the experts tell us that England is in her present plight because the men and women took to loafing many years ago. I don't know anything about economics in its larger aspects but I do know that loafing generally brings misery in its train. It is the idle that have time to get in trouble. It is the idle that breed mischief and it is the idle that tax the industrious and keep them from reaping the benefit of their industry. This doesn't refer to those who are idle as a result of the late misfortune. It refers to the idle that are idle because they haven't the moral stamina to prepare themselves for work and then haven't the moral earnestness to go to it.

If this seems harsh it is because I would jolt you out of your complacent attitude toward your idle existence. The physiologists speak of the integrated life as being the happy and contented one. The integrated life is simply the well rounded, complete life. A woman without a husband, without a home, without work and without financial independence certainly doesn't have a complete life and she cannot be happy until she takes means to complete it. Love and work are two essentials for happiness.

Poetry Forum To Hold Meeting.

Poetry Forum of the Atlanta Writers' Club will meet with Mr. and Mrs. I. S. Hopkins, 1222 Springdale road, Sunday, December 13, at 2:30 p. m. The chairman of the forum, Dr. W. F. Burgess Children's Stories

RUNTY LEARNS THAT THERE ARE EGGS AND EGGS.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

More often than you ever dream Are things and folks not what they seem.

—Old Mother Nature.

This isn't always their own fault. By no means. It is often due to failure on the part of others to see them truly. They may seem to be one thing while in reality they are something altogether different, largely because others think they are what they are not. So it is never wise to judge wholly by appearances.

Runt, the venturesome little Possum, was in Farmer Brown's henhouse looking for eggs. He never had seen an egg but he was sure he would know one if he found it. Unc' Billy Possum, his father, had told him that it would be big and smooth. So when he climbed into the first nest and found something smooth and rounded he hadn't a doubt that it was an egg. His eyes glistened. He smelled of it, but there was no odor. He felt of it. It was hard and smooth, so smooth that his little paws slipped from it. It was bigger than he had thought it would be, a third as big as himself, for he was still a little fellow.

Unc' Billy had said that the smooth part was a shell that he could bite through. He decided that he would try that egg then and there! One end was smaller than the other. He laid down beside it and clasped it with both hands and feet and tried to bite through the small end. His teeth slipped off. Yes, sir, his teeth couldn't bite through that shell. What was more, he had hard work to hold on to it. It kept slipping from his grasp. He began to lose his temper. He bit harder than ever and his teeth slipped off as before. It made him so angry that he kicked foolishly and that egg slipped away from him and out of the nest down to the floor, where it landed with a dull thump.

Runt peered down. Then he climbed down. That shell hadn't broken. It hadn't even cracked. Runt sniffed in disgust and then climbed to another nest. It also had an egg and this egg was just like the other. He couldn't bite it, try as he would. This he also kicked out on the floor and it didn't break. Runt was becoming discouraged and oh, so disappointed. He began to wonder what sort of teeth Unc' Billy had to bite through a shell like that. He climbed from nest to nest. Some were empty and others had eggs just like those he had found. He tried them all with the same result. Of course, you know what they were. They were china eggs, china nest eggs put there by Farmer Brown's Boy.

Try as he would he couldn't bite through that shell.

Just as Runt was about ready to give up he found a nest with two eggs in it. Yes, sir, there were two eggs in it. One was just like the others, but one was different. It was a little smaller and it felt different. When he tried his sharp teeth on the small end they went through. Quicker than I can tell it Runt had a hole in that end and was sucking and lapping out the contents. He was getting his first taste of egg and liking it. He understood now why Unc' Billy wanted egg so badly.

At last in the far corner nest of the upper row he found another real egg and once more forgot everything but the feast he was having. Those two eggs were the only ones in the henhouse. They had been laid after Farmer Brown's Boy had collected the eggs the morning before. Meanwhile Unc' Bill was waiting impatiently outside and wishing with all his might he could make himself as small as Runt long enough to squeeze through that little opening.

"Ah do wish that youngster would roll me out an aigg," sighed Unc' Billy.

Mrs. McConnell Honored on Visit To Savannah, Ga.

Mrs. Lucius W. McConnell has returned from Savannah, where, as president of the Georgia Society of the United States Daughters of 1812, she was the official representative of the society in the welcoming of the frigate Constitution, the historic ship which figured so gloriously in the War of 1812, and was docked in Savannah harbor Monday. The historic ship, which was known as "Old Ironsides," was given royal welcome, and a salute of 21 guns was fired.

Within a few minutes after the ship docked a delegation from the United States Daughters of 1812 were welcomed aboard by Commander Gulliver. Among the prominent women present was Mrs. McConnell, state president of the society, who came to Savannah to present the command of the Constitution, the flag of the Daughters of 1812, which was accepted and placed in the cabin of the ship to stay there during the visit of the ship in Savannah. A basket of flowers accompanied the presentation of the flag. With Mrs. McConnell was Mrs. R. J. Travis, who presented a basket of flowers to the Constitution, and Mrs. Douglas Weart. Mrs. McConnell poured tea, and Mrs. Travis poured coffee, the table being adorned with white chrysanthemums.

Brigadier General and Mrs. Robert J. Travis entertained at a reception in honor of Mrs. McConnell at the home of Major and Mrs. Douglas L. Weart on Atlantic avenue and receiving with General and Mrs. Travis were Mrs. Weart, Mrs. McConnell and the officers of the Constitution. Among those assisting were Misses Rosalie Hull, Josephine Hull, Marion Gill, Gertrude Weart, Rena Travis and Cecilia Travis. General and Mrs. Travis invited local members of the Daughters of 1812 and a number of friends to meet the distinguished guest of honor.

Culbertson on Contract

The Delayed Coup

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A coup, a term used frequently in Bridge, means nothing more nor less than a play for position. It is a play used to capture an adverse trump which otherwise would make a trick were it not for the position of the Declarer's trumps in relation to those adversely held. It also involves the shortening of the Declarer's hand in trumps in order to attain the position desired. The play is an extremely interesting one as it occurs with great frequency at the Bridge table and is more frequently missed than made, even by players of considerable skill.

Today's hand also deals with the correct management in play of a suit holding all the high honors with the exception of the King and Knave and unaware of the location of these honors. The principle of play here advocated is my own invention, but other players have accepted it as correct.

1—East's hand is not strong enough for a Takeout Double, although he has strong hopes of defeating game contract by his opponents.

2—A "nuisance" bid inserted with the hope of laying a bidding defense against a possible game contract.

3—The club suit is rebiddable once.

4—South's Rebid is based on hope to find a fit in the hands.

5—A sacrifice bid. West has no defense against a four spade contract.

6—North sees a certain penalty. He is uncertain about game.

7—South feels that the chance of making five spades is excellent and does not wish to risk a game for a small penalty.

West opened a diamond and Dummy won with the Ace. When South studied his hand he saw that the King and Knave of spades were missing. East's Double probably located the King of spades in that hand. In any event, with this holding in spades his correct lead was the Queen. So the Queen was led from Dummy. East, of course, refused to cover and West's Singleton Knave dropped. This seemed to place the remaining trumps adversely held in East's hand. He next led the last diamond from Dummy and trumped in his own hand, the first step in preparing for the later position play essential to the making of his contract. South's next play was to lead a club, finessing the Queen and East won. It is, of course, apparent that East must lead a spade, as any other lead would cost him a trick. South won the spade trick with the eight and again finessed the club, East's Ten winning. To play the Ace of clubs at this stage would have meant defeat. Even yet East is not entirely helpless. If he would now make the brilliant lead of the King of hearts, South could not make his contract as the opportunity to shorten his trumps to the same number as held by East would not then be presented.

Miss Bonnie Roberts Is Honor Guest.

Mrs. Mortie Stanley entertained Friday evening at dinner at her home on Superior avenue in Decatur, in compliment to Miss Bonnie Roberts, retiring worthy matron of Decatur chapter No. 148, O. E. S. The invited guests being the 1931 officers of the chapter. The exquisite appointments of the table carried out a color scheme of lavender and gold, yellow chrysanthemums forming the centerpiece, and the yellow tapers were tied with lavender tulle. Tiny dolls, dressed in yellow and lavender chiffon were favors and held the cards marking the guests' places.

The place cards had the names of the stations held by the guests, the worthy matron being given the seat of honor, with her place indicated by a lovely French doll, beautifully gowned in lavender and yellow. The ladies were presented by the hostess with corsages of yellow and lavender which gave a charming touch to the attractive white evening gowns. Mesdames W. V. Hayes, H. P. Roberts and Miss Willetta Stanley assisted Mrs. Stanley in entertaining.

The guests included Miss Bonnie Roberts, worthy matron; Mark A. Stephenson, worthy patron; Mrs. Mortie H. Stanley, associate matron; Marion Smith, associate patron; Mrs. A. L. Kinney, secretary; Mrs. Marion Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Adele Roberts, conductress; Mrs. W. N. Baker, associate conductress; Mrs. Katherine Cook, chaplain; Mrs. C. C. Miss Reed Weds J. Allen Johnson In Newnan, Ga.

LAGRANGE, Ga., Dec. 10.—Announcement is made today by Mrs. Fauntleroy Todd Reed of the marriage of her daughter, Julia Hill, to J. Allen Johnson, of West Point, the ceremony having taken place in Newnan, Ga., at the Presbyterian manse on December 1. Rev. A. M. Pierce, of Newnan, pastor of the Newnan Presbyterian church, officiated.

The bride has made her home in LaGrange for a number of years and is one of the most admired young women in the city. She is of the petite blonde type, combining rare charm with a lovable disposition and unusual talent. She attended school in LaGrange and later studied kindergarten work at the University of Colorado and University of Tennessee. For the past several years she has been in charge of the Dunston kindergarten here.

The bride's father, the late F. T. Reed, was police chief of LaGrange for a number of years. Her mother was the former Miss Minnie Hill, of West Point. Mrs. Johnson is a great niece of the late Senator Benjamin Harvey Hill. Harvey Reed, of LaGrange; Gus Reed, of Savannah, and Will Reed, of West Point, are her brothers.

Mr. Johnson is the son of Mrs. Jonnie Johnson and the late J. Allen Johnson Sr., of West Point. He is a brother of Willis Johnson, of High Point, N. C.; Denson and Robert Johnson, of West Point, and Mrs. A. G. Pope, of LaGrange. Mr. Johnson is a grading contractor, and is well-known in business and social circles in western Georgia. He and his bride will make their home in West Point.

BELGIUM WILL SEEK FRENCH TRADE PACT

Holland Would Also Be Invited Into Economic Union.

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 10.—The chamber of deputies today authorized the government to start negotiations immediately for an economic union between France, Holland and Belgium.

This project has been under discussion for some time and last Monday the semi-official newspaper, Meuse, said a vote like that taken today was likely if Foreign Minister Hymans was unsuccessful in efforts to negotiate a customs agreement with Great Britain.

M. Hymans was represented as being opposed to a union with France and Holland on the ground that the position of small nations in such a combination is precarious.

LAW URGED TO HALT FARM FORECLOSURES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Legislation to prevent farmers from losing their land through foreclosure proceedings by federal land banks was urged today by President Hoover.

The proposal was made by Nels Christensen, president of the Farmers and Tax Payers League of South Carolina. He was accompanied to the White House by Senator Smith, democrat, South Carolina.

Christensen said he recommended to the president that the treasury be authorized to take up interest coupons due from farmers to the federal land banks. The farmers would repay the money later.

Senator Smith said he would introduce a bill in congress to accomplish the plan.

41 TAXPAYERS GIVEN $69,476,930 REFUNDS

Individuals and Corporations Listed by Board of Appeals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Forty-one individuals or corporations have received refunds, credits or abatements of more than $1,000,000 each on their income taxes since March, 1929, according to information made available today by the board of tax appeals.

A total of $69,476,930.26 has been refunded in the fiscal year 1931. In past years, about 60 per cent of the refunds has been to corporations, but no exact division has yet been made in the 1931 totals.

The United States Steel Corporation of New York received the largest adjustment of tax payments. It obtained a refund of $4,088,889 and a credit of $17,006,990—a total of $21,095,879.

Other large adjustments included: Estate of Payne Whitney—$16,956,258 (abatement and refund); Estate of Rodman Wanamaker—$7,270,496 (abatement); F. W. Woolworth Co.—$1,385,572 (credit and abatement); United Fruit Co.—$2,261,428 (refund);

LONG WILL FINISH TERM AS GOVERNOR

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 10.—(AP) Governor Huey P. Long, campaigning for the state administration ticket on the January 19 democratic primary, today spiked rumors that he would resign from the governorship before his term expires and go to Washington to take his senate seat.

"I will be governor until O. K. Allen is elected governor by 125,000 majority," said Long. The governor recently expressed his intention of going to Washington about February 1.

Dr. Paul N. Cyr's contest of Long's right to continue as governor is now before the state supreme court on appeal from a lower court decision favoring Long.

The suit of Cyr was dismissed in district court here on the grounds of no cause of action.

Warm Weather Will Continue; Light Rain Bare Possibility

Today will see continued warm weather in Atlanta with fair skies most of the day, according to C. F. von Herrmann, meteorologist. However, there is a bare possibility of resumption of the rain which drenched and soaked Atlantans for three days, he declared. If the remote possibility of rain becomes an actual fact, it will not occur until late this afternoon, he declared, and the rain then will only be a light one.

In contrast with Wednesday, when the mercury slid below the freezing mark, Thursday in Atlanta was balmy and almost like spring, with temperatures ranging between 42 and 65 degrees. Today's thermometer readings will be much the same, said Mr. von Herrmann.

One of the few remaining comparatively dry spots was the coastal district between Savannah and Jacksonville. Rains sweeping over Dixie from a disturbance in the gulf south of New Orleans in the last three days failed to reach that far.

The prospects for the next couple of days were somewhat indefinite, depending largely on the actions of a low pressure area central today south of Denver, Col. If it should move southeastward, meteorologists said, the southeastern portion of the country

BOTTLERS OPEN CONVENTION HERE

An address by Junior Owens, secretary of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, election officers and selection of a city for next year's convention will feature today's final sessions of the Georgia Bottlers' Association, in annual convention at the Piedmont hotel. Approximately 150 soft drink bottling plants in the state are represented at the gathering, which is the fourteenth annual meeting of the organization.

Thursday's sessions were given over to discussions of various phases of the industry, with the annual address of the president, T. G. Reeves, of Columbus, featuring the day's speaking.

Business in the city was brought to a close. Today's business meeting will convene at 10:30 a. m.

FATE OF NEGRO IN HANDS OF JURY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—A jury tonight weighed evidence presented in the trial of Willie Peterson, 37-year-old negro, for the murder of Miss Augusta Williams, daughter of a prominent Birmingham attorney. The jury received the case shortly before 5 p. m., and retired to begin its deliberations after Solicitor George Lewis Bailey closed the day's arguments with a demand that Peterson be sent to the electric chair.

Defense attorneys based their plea for an acquittal on two points—that Peterson was physically unable to commit the crime and that he did not leave home the day Miss Williams was fatally wounded by a negro highwayman.

A. W. BLUMBERG, ENGINEER, DEAD

U. S. Supervisor of New Postoffice Succumbs to Illness Here.

Alexander W. Blumberg, 59, government construction engineer, who was to have had charge of the construction work of the new Atlanta postoffice, died Thursday afternoon at Wesley Memorial hospital, where he had been ill for the last 15 weeks.

Private funeral services will be held this afternoon at Spring Hill. The body will be taken Saturday morning to Macon, Ga., for interment.

Well known in many cities throughout the United States where he had had charge of the construction of post-offices, and other government buildings, Mr. Blumberg was considered outstanding in his profession. He was employed by the treasury department under the supervising architect.

He was taken ill in Roanoke, Va., where he was completing a new post-office. He was brought here to the hospital, his family having moved to this city in September and the four sons entered Emory University.

Upon Mr. Blumberg's continued illness, the government appointed another engineer to supervise the work at the new building here. He had been connected in the building of the old postoffice here and was well known to many Atlantans from his previous stay in Atlanta.

Among the many large public buildings of which Mr. Blumberg had been engineer in the government hospital at Savannah, the government docks at Charleston, a New York city postoffice, hospital and postoffice at Walla Walla, Wash., and numerous others. He had been engaged in the work for 31 years.

Early in his career, Mr. Blumberg was associated with A. Ten Eyck Brown, prominent Atlanta architect

A scrip dance, in honor of the champion football team of Decatur High school, will be given Friday night at the Decatur Woman's Club from 9 to 12. The dance is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of the school and all members of the Decatur younger social set are expected to attend.

Music will be furnished by the "Serenaders."

and formerly with the treasury department.

Mr. Blumberg, a native of Detroit, Mich., married the former Miss Hortense Morris, member of a prominent and well-known Macon family. They resided at 908 Austin avenue, N. E.

Besides his wife, he is survived by four sons: A. W. Jr., Joe M., Max M. and Richard W. Blumberg, all students at Emory University; two sisters, Mrs. John C. Metzner, and Mrs. Ed Friedland, both of Detroit, and four brothers, R. J. Blumberg, of Columbus, Ohio, and Ben, Max and Julius Blumberg, all of Detroit.

LEE BAKING CO. O. W. Miller, President

Text of Hoover's Message on Foreign Affairs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—The text of President Hoover's message on foreign affairs to congress asking ratification of his proposal for a one-year moratorium on inter-governmental debts follows:

With the support of a large majority of the individual members of the senate and house, I informed the government concerned last June that—

The American government proposes the postponement during one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts, reparations and relief debts, both principal and interest; of course not including obligations of governments held by private parties.

Subject to confirmation by congress, the American government will postpone all payments upon the debts of foreign governments to the American government payable during the fiscal year ending July 1, next, conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts owing the important creditor powers.

For Recovery.

In making this proposal, I also publicly stated:

"The purpose of this action is to give the forthcoming year to the economic recovery of the world and to help free the recuperative forces already in motion in the United States from retarding influences from abroad."

The worldwide depression has affected the countries of Europe more severely than our own. Some of these countries are feeling to a serious extent the drain of this depression on national economy. The fabric of inter-governmental debts, supportable in normal times, weighs heavily in the midst of this depression.

"From the point of view of the depression, such as the fall in the price of foreign commodities and the lack of confidence in economic and political stability abroad, there is an abnormal movement of gold into the United States which is lowering the credit stability of many foreign countries. These and the other difficulties abroad diminish buying power for our exports and in a measure are the cause of our continued lower prices to our farmers."

"Wise and timely action to contribute to relieve the pressure of these adverse forces in foreign countries and should assist in the re-establishment of confidence and the warding off of political and economic instability in the world."

Limited Authority.

"Authority of the president to deal with this problem is limited, as this action must be supported by the congress. It has been assured the cordial support of leading members of both parties in the senate and the house."

"The essence of this proposition is to give time to permit debtor governments to recover their national prosperity. I am suggesting to the American people that they be wise creditors in their own interest and be good neighbors."

"I wish to take this occasion also to frankly state my views upon our relations to German reparations and the debts owed to us by the allied governments of Europe. Our government has not been a party to, or exerted any voice in determination of, reparations to Germany. We have not participated in either general reparations or the division of colonies or property."

"The repayment of debts due to us from the allies for the advance for war and reconstruction were settled upon a basis not contingent upon German reparations or related thereto. Therefore, reparations are necessarily wholly a European problem with which we have no relation."

Against Cancellation.

"I do not approve in any remote sense of the cancellation of the debts to us. World confidence would not be enhanced by such action. None of our debtor nations have ever suggested it. But as the basis of the settlement of these debts was the capacity under normal conditions of the debtor to pay, we should be consistent with our own policies and principles if we take into account the abnormal situation now existing in the world."

"I am sure the American people have no desire to attempt to extract any sum beyond the capacity of any debtor to pay, and it is our view that broad vision requires that our government should recognize the situation as it exists."

"This course of action is entirely consistent with the policy which we have hitherto pursued. We are not involved in the discussion of strictly European problems, of which the payment of German reparations is one. It represents our willingness to make a contribution to the early restoration of world prosperity in which our own people have so deep an interest."

"I wish further to add that while this action has no bearing on the conference for limitation of land armaments to be held next February, inasmuch as the burden of competitive armaments has contributed to bring about this depression, we trust that by this evidence of our desire to assist we shall have contributed to the good will which is so necessary in the solution of this major question."

Proposal Accepted.

All the important creditor governments accepted this proposal. The necessary agreements among them have been executed, and creditor governments have foregone the receipt of payments due them since July 1, 1931.

The effect of this agreement was instantaneous in reversing the drift toward general economic panic and has served to give time to the peoples of these countries to readjust their economic life. The action taken was necessary. I am confident it commends itself to the judgment of the American people."

Payments due to the United States government from many countries, both on account of principal and interest, fall due on December 15.

It is highly desirable that a law should be enacted before that date authorizing the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the president, to postpone all payments due us on account of debts owed by foreign governments to the United States government during the year ending June 30, 1932, and to provide for their payment over a 10-year period, beginning July 1, 1933.

Further Adjustments.

As we approach the new year it is clear that a number of the governments indebted to us will be unable to meet further payments to us in full pending recovery in their economic life. It is useless to blind ourselves to an obvious fact. Therefore it will be necessary in some cases to make still further temporary adjustments.

The congress has shared with the executive in the past the consideration of questions arising from these debts. I am sure that it will commend itself to the congress, that the legislative branch of the government should continue to share this responsibility.

In order that we should be in position to deal with the situation, I recommend the recreation of the World War foreign debt commission, with authority to examine such problems as may arise in connection with these debts during the present economic emergency, and to report to the congress its conclusions and recommendations.

Disarmament.

The United States has accepted an invitation to take part in the world disarmament conference which convenes on February 2, 1932. The efforts of this conference will be in line with the endeavors in which the American government has taken a leading part beginning with The Hague conference in 1899.

Up to the present time the record of achievement has been almost entirely in the field of naval disarmament. It is to be hoped that further progress can be made in reduction of naval arms and that limitation and reduction so urgently needed can be extended to land arms.

The burden of taxes to support armaments is greater today than before the Great War, and the economic instability of the world is definitely due in part to this cause and the fears which these huge armaments at all times create. No discouragements should be permitted to turn the world from sane and reasonable armaments.

With a view to establishing an atmosphere of confidence for the opening of this world disarmament conference, more than 40 governments, including all the principal military and naval powers, have joined in accepting the principle of one-year armaments truce.

This truce, which is the outgrowth of a proposal advanced last September by the foreign minister of Italy, is designed to prevent the expansion of armaments program during the coming months in the hope of removing the threat of a sudden revival of competition in arms before and during the conference. These arms, fully approved by our war and navy departments.

Manchuria.

We have been deeply concerned over the situation in Manchuria. As parties to the Kellogg-Briand pact and to the nine-power treaty, we have a responsibility in maintaining the integrity of China and a direct interest with other nations in maintaining peace there."

When this controversy originated in September the League of Nations was in session and China appealed to the council of that body which at once undertook mediation in the dispute between China and Japan. Both China and Japan have participated in these proceedings before the council ever since.

Under the Kellogg-Briand pact all of the signatories, including China and Japan, have covenanted to seek none but pacific means in the settlement of their disputes. The purpose of the proceedings under this section of the Kellogg-Briand pact and of conciliation proceedings by the League of Nations is to settle, therefore, both wise and appropriate rather to aid and advise with the League and thus have unity of world effort to maintain peace than to take independent action.

In all negotiations, however, the department of state has maintained complete freedom of judgment and action as to participation in any measures which the League might finally be determined upon.

Immediately after the outbreak of the trouble this government advised both Japan and China of its serious interest. Subsequently it communicated its views to both governments regarding their obligations under the Kellogg-Briand pact.

In this action we were joined by other nations signatory of the pact. This government has consistently and repeatedly by diplomatic representations indicated its unremitting solicitude that these treaty obligations be respected.

At present a resolution is pending before the meeting at Paris, with hopes of passage, under which Japan and China will agree to take no initiative which might lead to renewed conflict; in which Japan has reiterated its intention to withdraw the Japanese troops to the railway zone as soon as the lives and property of Japanese nationals in Manchuria can be adequately protected; and under which both nations agree to a neutral commission to mediate on the ground, to which commission all matters in dispute can be referred for investigation and report.

St. Lawrence Waterway.

Conversations were begun between the secretary of state and the Canadian minister at Washington on November 14 looking to the framing of a treaty for the development of the St. Lawrence seaway. The negotiations are continuing.

I am hopeful that an agreement may result within a reasonable time enabling us to begin work on this great project, which will be of much importance economically to Canada and to the United States.

Visits of M. Laval and Signor Grandi.

The president of the council of ministers of France, M. Laval, visited Washington in October in order to discuss problems of outstanding world interest, in the solution of which it was felt that the two countries could be of assistance. The informal and cordial conversations served to bring into relief the respective positions of the two nations.

The visit in November of the royal Italian minister for foreign affairs also afforded an opportunity for a cordial exchange of views respecting the many world problems in which this government and the government of Italy are interested.

It was not the purpose of these meetings to engage in any commitments or to conclude agreements. However, the visit of M. Laval and Signor Grandi, together with the various meetings of statesmen in Europe and the visit of the secretary of state to European countries, have brought about valuable understandings of the nature of the problems confronting different governments which should aid in their solution.

Nicaragua.

In compliance with the agreement made in May, 1927, the Nicaraguan government requested supervision of an electoral commission from the United States of the congressional elections held in 1930.

This year a member of the commissions of 1928 and 1930 was sent to Nicaragua as an observer during the election of municipal authorities in order that, on the basis of his observations, it might be possible to arrange the many necessary details of the supervision of the 1932 presidential election in Nicaragua.

Armed forces of the United States maintained in Nicaragua have been reduced to the minimum deemed necessary to the training of the Nicaraguan constabulary and the rendering of appropriate support for such instruction. It is proposed to withdraw completely American armed forces from Nicaragua after their presidential election in 1932.

Nicaragua suffered a terrible disaster in the destruction of Managua, the capital, by earthquake and fire in March, last. With their usual generosity the American people, through the Red Cross, went wholeheartedly to the assistance of the stricken country.

United States marines and engineers of the war department, who were in the country making a survey of the proposed canal route, joined in rendering service.

The American legation building was destroyed with all its contents, but the minister and his staff continued to carry on their official duties and worked ceaselessly in the face of unusual hardships. The Nicaraguan government has expressed its deep gratitude for the aid rendered.

Haiti.

Substantial progress has been made in carrying out the program for the withdrawal of our activities in Haiti recommended by the commission which, with the support of the congress, made an investigation of Haitian affairs in 1930, and by its good offices laid the foundation for the present popularly elected government of that republic.

After protracted negotiations an agreement was reached between the government of Haiti and the United States government on August 5, providing for the return to Haitian control of important government services heretofore under American supervision by virtue of general obligations arising through the provisions of our treaty with Haiti.

In accordance with the agreement the Haitian government on October 1 assumed definitely the administration and control of the department of public works, the sanitary service and the technical service of agriculture, which includes the industrial educational system. All American personnel was withdrawn from these services.

To minimize the possibility of epidemics and in order that the health of the American troops and officials stationed in Haiti might be adequately protected the accord provided that an American scientific mission, consisting of three American naval officers and six hospital corpsmen, should be charged with the control of sanitation in the cities of Port Au Prince and Cape Haitien.

The accord makes appropriate provision for the continuance of adequate financial control and assistance on the part of our government. The liberty of action, both of the government of the United States and the government of Haiti with respect to questions of financial administration, is, of course, limited.

Bolivia and Paraguay.

In 1929 the government of the United States, together with the governments of Cuba, Colombia, Mexico and Uruguay, formed the commission on inquiry and conciliation, Bolivia-Paraguay, which had the good fortune of being able to terminate an international incident which for a time threatened to cause war between the countries involved.

The five neutral governments then offered their good offices to Bolivia and Paraguay, with a view to furthering a settlement of their difficulties. This offer was accepted in principle. I am happy to state that representatives of both countries are now meeting in Washington, with the hope of concluding a pact of non-aggression between them.

It has been the privilege of this government to lend its good offices on several occasions in the past to the settlement of boundary disputes between the American republics. One of the most recent occasions upon which the disinterested services of this government were requested was in connection with the settlement of the boundary which for almost a century has been outstanding between the republics of Guatemala and Honduras with respect to their common boundary.

Conference extending over a period of some months were held in 1930 in the department of state, and eventually on July 16, 1930, a treaty was signed submitting the question to arbitration, and there was also signed a supplementary convention providing for the delimitation of the boundary after the arbitral tribunal hands down its award. Ratifications were exchanged on October 15, 1931. The tribunal, which will meet in Washington, will be presided over by the chief justice of the United States, who has set December 15, 1931, as the date for the first meeting.

Mexico.

The period for hearings before the general and special claims commissions between this country and Mexico expired in August, 1931. Pursuant to a resolution of the senate under date of February 28, 1931, and under instructions from the department of state, the American ambassador at Mexico City is carrying on negotiations with the Mexican government looking to the renewal of the activities of the commissions, in order that the claims of American citizens still pending may be heard and adjudicated.

The governments of the United States and Mexico have approved in principle certain engineering plans submitted by the international boundary commission, United States and Mexico, for the rectification of the Rio Grande in the vicinity of El Paso, Texas, to prevent periodical floods in that region.

Negotiations are being carried on between the two governments in an effort to reach an agreement by which this important international project may be undertaken.

Treaties and Conventions.

There have been transmitted to the senate, from time to time, treaties and conventions which have failed during recent sessions to obtain that body's consideration or final decision.

Inasmuch as these treaties affect numerous phases of private and public endeavor, I earnestly commend their early conclusion to the attention of the congress.

In the past session of the congress I transmitted to the senate protocols providing for adherence by the United States to the permanent court of international justice."

Upon that occasion I expressed my views fully not only of the wisdom of such action, but that the safeguards against European entanglements stipulated for by the senate had been in effect secured and the interests of the United States protected.

I need not repeat that for over 12 years every president and every secretary of state used this action as a material contribution to the pacific settlement of controversies among nations and a further assurance against war.

By consideration of legislation during its last session, the congress informed itself thoroughly regarding the merits of the copyright convention signed at Berlin on November 13, 1908. I hope that necessary legislation will be enacted during this congress which will make it possible for further consideration to be given to the copyright convention.

The sockeye salmon fisheries treaty, entered into with Canada to afford protection to the industry, was signed on May 20, 1930, merits the attention of the senate during the present session.

The United States sent a delegation to the conference on safety of life at sea, which was held in London in 1929. The convention, which was signed at Geneva on June 17, 1929, represents another of the steps taken in the general field of restriction of armaments. It has been ratified unconditionally by some nations, conditionally by others.

With the added impetus which ratification by the United States would lend to such a move, it is quite possible that the 14 ratifications necessary by treaty stipulation would be received to bring the convention into force.

Among the other treaties and conventions which remain before the senate for its consideration and of no less importance in their respective fields are a treaty regarding consular agents of American states (sixth international conference of American states, Havana, 1928); a treaty relating to maritime neutrality with American states (sixth international conference of American states, Havana, 1928); the general treaty of inter-American arbitration, signed at Washington January 5, 1923; the convention relating to prisoners of war, signed at Geneva on July 27, 1929; a convention signed on the same date for the amelioration of the condition of wounded and sick of armies in the field (the Red Cross convention); and the convention for the unification of certain rules relating to bills of lading for the carriage of goods by sea, signed at Brussels on behalf of the United States on June 23, 1925.

New Treaties and Conventions.

Since my message to the seventy-second congress and by virtue of the power vested in the office of the chief executive, I have continued to commission representatives of this government to negotiate treaties with the representatives of other countries which affect the amicable, political, commercial and judicial relations of this country, as well as treaties dealing with humanitarian matters.

Important treaties and conventions which have been signed recently by representatives of this government are as follows:

1. Treaty of arbitration and conciliation with Switzerland, signed February 10, 1931.
2. Treaty modifying the conciliation convention with Italy (Bryan peace treaty), signed September 28, 1931.
3. Extradition treaty with Greece, signed May 6, 1931.
4. Protocol relating to military obligations in certain cases of double nationality, multilateral, signed December 31, 1930.
5. Treaty of friendship, commerce and consular rights with Poland, signed June 15, 1931.
6. Treaty with reference to establishment and sojourn with Turkey, signed October 28, 1931.

These treaties and conventions will be transmitted to the senate in due course, with a view to obtaining its advice and consent to ratification.

CLARK AND THREE WIN SCHOLARSHIPS

The young men were selected by a committee on four qualifications as set forth by the late Cecil Rhodes, South African empire builder, in his will which created this opportunity for a certain number of young men between the ages of 18 and 24 years to study abroad. The scholarships are offered in every English-speaking country, of which the United States has the largest quota.

The scholars for 1932 have all made remarkable records in the schools which they attended, both in educational and athletic fields, and are leaders in extra-curricular activities. There were 684 applicants for the 32 scholarships allotted to this country. It was announced.

Clark, who is 21 years old, will receive his bachelor of arts degree at Harvard next June. He was graduated at the head of his class here at Boys' High school in 1928, and was a colonel in the R. O. T. C. He is a student at the Harvard Crimson, weekly campus newspaper. At the English university, he will study English literature, with a view to entering the field of journalism, upon completing his course. He was born and reared in this city, the son of R. N. Clark Sr., who is engaged in the insurance business here.

Tennis Star Wins

Clayton Lee Burwell, 21, is a nationally known tennis player and a descendant of Robert E. Lee. At present he is southern intercollegiate tennis champion and is listed in the national ranking of tennis players. In the national intercollegiate tennis tournament last year, he advanced to the quarter-finals by defeating Junior Conn, Davis cup player.

Burwell has gained a national reputation in tennis by defeating all of the ranking college players except Ellsworth Vines, of California, with whom he has played several five-set matches. He was beaten this year in the national tournament by Frank S.

SHIELDS AFTER PLAYING SET-POINT WITH SHIELDS THREE TIMES

A career in the legal profession is the aim of Burwell, and he announced Thursday that he would study law at Oxford. Although his home is in North Carolina, he represents Tennessee, where he will receive his bachelor of arts degree at Sevenside next spring. He is the son of Lewis Carter Burwell, of Charlotte.

After graduating at the head of his class at V. M. I. in 1928, John White Pendleton, 23, of Lexington, Va., taught for two years at the Devereux school at Niagara Falls, N. Y., holding the position as commandant of cadets there. He holds a bachelor of arts degree. Deciding to continue his studies after the teaching experience, Pendleton, whose father is Colonel Hunter Pendleton, of Lexington, entered in the graduate school of Johns Hopkins University at Baltimore, where he studied for the last two years.

He took a prominent part in school activities at the Virginia college and was one of the best-known and most universally popular students on the campus. Pendleton declares that he will study English language and literature at Oxford, and plans to continue teaching in American colleges as soon as he finishes.

A course in cultural philosophy in modern history will be taken at Oxford by Don Price Jr., announced in preparation to enter newspaper work in the United States. Price was graduated from Vanderbilt University last year with a B. A. degree. He is the second representative from the state of Tennessee although he lives in Kentucky.

Standing high in scholastics and athletics at Vanderbilt, he was a member of the honorary fraternities Phi Beta Kappa, denoting that he was a leader in his class. He is 21 years old, and the son of D. K. Price Sr., a prominent attorney in Middleboro.

Two Years at Oxford

Selected for manliness, scholastic ability and attainments, kindness, devotion to duty, and other qualifications of that order, these four young men have been awarded scholarships which are worth approximately 400 pounds in English money. According

The selecting committee, which met here at the Biltmore hotel, was composed of Clark Howell, editor of The Constitution, who acted as chairman; William A. Stuart, of Abingdon, Va., secretary; Dean R. P. Brooks, of the University of Georgia; O. C. Carmichael, president of the Alabama Women's College, and Henry Allen Moe, executive secretary of the Guggenheim Foundation, of New York city. All of the committee are former Rhodes scholars, except the chairman.

The 12 regional representatives were selected by a state committee, two being chosen to compete from each state. Georgia's other representative was John E. Wilson, of Camilla, a student at Emory University, Clark, Burwell, Pendleton and Price were named by the committee after a consideration of their records and personal interviews with each man.

The report specifically mentioned that Goldhurst had been recommended for a parole board inquiry that he made no recommendation at this time. But later he recommended clemency in view of the heavy penalty imposed and Goldhurst's assistance.

In August, 1929, the district attorney's office learned that Goldhurst "had been attempting to bribe an assistant," the report said. A woman was questioned, but denied it. After Goldhurst was sentenced, he was released in November, 1929, that he had given the woman the money in addition to jewelry.

WAGE MEASURE VETOED BY MAYOR

Text of the measure follows: "I am returning without my approval resolution appropriating additional sum of $4,810 to the Griffin Construction Company's contract to build the administration building at the municipal airport, said sum to be distributed by the mayor and controller on pro rata basis, submitted by the Griffin Construction Company."

"Some technical objections could be urged to this additional appropriation for the year when it is well known by everyone that the tax receipts are now many hundreds of thousands of dollars overestimated. Further objection could be urged that the plan of distributing the money is so vague and uncertain that it is impossible to carry out the measure. One business rule and precedent that it would be an unsafe precedent to establish. On the other hand, this action of the general council in appropriating the city's money which has led to many abuses in the past. Monies have from time to time been voted to the Griffin Construction Company, and the sum called for by various contracts of the city, which has done much discredit to the city in the past, and is a precedent that should be discontinued and everyone given to understand that this method of raising the city's treasury has become obsolete."

"But aside from this question, there are other matters that are controlling to me. The city will wind up the year's business with a deficit of million dollars. This is substantially the same deficit with which we began the year's business. There has been no absorption of the deficit during the year. The city's treasury has been secured with all of the economies that have been practiced is to bring the city and its operations into the black. This is a matter that the banks now hold the city's note for $700,000 due December 10, which cannot be paid for lack of funds."

"There will be due the last day of December and the first day of January more than $750,000 worth of the city's bonds. Not one penny has been provided for their payment. We must help up the banks to ensure that there will be no money to pay the December pay roll. The funds for these payments cannot be anticipated as they have been expended and whether it can be paid at all or not is very doubtful."

"We will begin another year with the knowledge now that the income of the city is $600,000 and $750,000. With all these conditions existing and well known to everyone who has taken the trouble to find out the facts, I feel that it is not only a waste of money but also a disgrace to the city to continue to operate in this manner. I would have sympathy with this contention, but these are extraordinary conditions and have to be met in an extraordinary way, and the most rigid and strict economy is the only way that I know by which it can be met."

"There are thousands of people in this community today that would be happy if they had the privilege of working for the wages provided in the original contract. You cannot vote this money out of the city treasury without making it impossible for the mouths of hundreds of people. This I am not willing to do."

'BLUEBEARD' HEARS GALLIOWS VERDICT

room in the basement of the town opera house where the trial was held in order to accommodate the hundreds of townspeople who for months had been singing, reading books and playing phonograph records about the "Bluebeard Slayings at Quiet Dell."

Above the jury, in the center of a brilliantly lighted stage, sat the man whose doom they were sealing in a little while. He was dressed in a suit and tie, and he looked calm and collected. He was the only one on the stage who did not look nervous.

He looked back and forth, apparently oblivious to the 1,300 spectators whose eyes were fixed upon him and his counsel. He was the only one on the stage who did not look nervous.

Whenever J. Ed Law, defense counsel, sat down, Powers leaned over and engaged him in an earnest conversation. He seemed puzzled by Law's display of emotion.

The spectators who have fought ever since the trial opened for seats in the orchestra pit and balcony sat in the opera house. They were all looking at the man who was being tried.

WIFE IS BEST, BRITISHER TELLS

Outside, crowds milled about in the roped-off streets. They swarmed up the alley leading to the stage exit, and the Britisher had been led twice a day to be photographed, stared at and whisked away under heavy guard to the jail.

When the jury filed back to the stage, a hush fell over the opera house. Thirteen hundred necks craned forward. Thirty reporters from all parts of the country who had occupied the boxes and first floor row of the orchestra pit all week, sat with poised pencils.

"Have you arrived at a verdict?" the court clerk asked. "We have," rang out the clear voice of Nathan Richards, a tall farmer. "Powers was chewing his gum in the rope show methodical way he did through the trial. One hand rested on the other. He tilted back slightly in his swivel chair."

As his face was revealed, he glanced at his counsel, but said nothing and displayed not a trace of reaction. A moment later he was being handcuffed and led to the back door.

Outside a cheer rippled down the street when the news spread that Clarkburg's strangest drama was over. The Britisher had been led down the alley to the jail after his arrest looked more with curiosity than anger to him as he was taken back to his cell.

that she won't have enough spending money to "run and. And there you have it. She feels defeated because she has to give her man a dollar necktie or a box of handkerchiefs."

By this time several of the passengers were laughing at the old clogger, and if he was aware, he cared little. He had reached that age where self-consciousness was not a part of his makeup. And there you have it. He was a man who had reached that age where self-consciousness was not a part of his makeup.

"I've done my Christmas shopping," he went on proudly. "I've bought all the things that I didn't bankrupt me, either. One of 'em—a special present—set me back two bucks. All these others here," he asserted the bundles in his lap, "cost anywhere from a quarter to a half a dollar. Things are cheaper this Christmas than they've been since I was as young as you, almost. You can buy a lot of things for a dollar."

"What's better for a present than a good pair of socks, now? Or two pairs of handkerchiefs? I'll bet there's many a morning when you find you need a nice, clean linen handkerchief, now don't you? Well, it's the same with the ladies, I know. Your girl will think a lot of a box of handkerchiefs on Christmas."

He rambloned on, and his philosophy struck me as being sound. He had the right idea of the thing—not so much what one gives as the significance of giving, the remembrance of a friend or dear one on Christmas. If a fellow (he said) had or so many dollars to spend for presents and so many people to buy presents for, why in the name of common sense didn't he buy gifts he could afford for each of them?

"I'm telling you," he emphasized. "A man can go to town with his dollar these days and bring home two dollars' worth of merchandise. I haven't seen things so cheap in going on 20 years. There's no reason for anybody going without a present this year unless you youngsters insist on spending all your money for one big present."

Walking about in a downtown department store the next day it was easy to verify the old man's claim. Five dollars, for example, would purchase a number of desirable Christmas presents—a set of eight stamped tea towels, for $1; an electric toaster, $1; a crystal bridge set, consisting of 4 cups, 4 saucers, 4 coasters, sugar and creamer, $5 cents; a magazine rack, $1; a pair of pajamas, $1—a total less than $5. And for lesser amounts many gifts that would make delightful presents were to be found everywhere.

JAPAN AND CHINA AGREE ON PEACE

Manchuria must in no way be interpreted as a precedent for the rights of a strong state as opposed to those of a weak nation.

Dr. Sun insisted upon placing on the record, in this connection, the assertion that "China cannot admit that the operation of international treaties shall cease at the frontiers of Manchuria."

The task of selecting the personnel of the commission of inquiry was given to a committee composed of M. Briand, the representatives of Spain and Norway and a British member in collaboration with the League's political experts.

It probably will require several days. It has been suggested that the commission is likely to go to Manchuria early next year.

STIMSON LAUDS LEAGUE FOR MOVE TOWARD PEACE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson thinks the resolution of the League of Nations council designed to calm Sino-Japanese troubles is a "definite step of progress," but still feels the real solution lies with the disputing nations.

"The ultimate solution of the Manchurian problem must be worked out by some process of agreement between China and Japan themselves," he said today in a statement. "This country is concerned that the methods employed in this settlement shall, in harmony with the obligations of the treaties to which we are parties, be made in a way which shall not endanger the peace of the world and that the result shall not be a result of military pressure."

"The American government, he said, will continue to follow "with solicited interest all developments" in the situation in the light of the treaties to which it is signatory.

Adoption of the resolution providing for a neutral commission of inquiry in no way constitutes an endorsement of any action taken in Manchuria, Stimson said.

"This government, as one of the signatories of the Kellogg-Briand pact and the nine-power treaty, cannot disguise its concern over the events which have been transpiring."

To me the most remarkable feature of the game thus far has been the attitude of Colonel G. G. J. Walsh, of London, a noted British bridge expert, who has been acting as one of the honorary referees.

Colonel Walsh has already won military titles and fame on many a hard fought bridge battlefield, but remained for this match to give him the title of the ideal kibitzer. Throughout three days of strenuous card play he has never uttered a word. He has established a world's record.

"Tonight, after the game was over, I saw him for a moment and asked him for the most interesting hand that has played. He immediately selected the hand he had refereed."

"I was struck with the strategy of Mrs. Culbertson in developing the play of this hand," said Colonel Walsh. "She was playing a contract of five clubs, and a plan of campaign had to be made at the outset. With all the coolness of a commander in war, Mrs. Culbertson developed her strategy, and in the completion of that strategic plan used masterly tactics. I don't wonder that she is Mrs. Culbertson's favorite partner."

"So far as I have seen," Colonel Walsh added, "Mrs. Culbertson has played the best bridge throughout the match. Outside of one bad defensive play, her play, both attacking and defensive, has been super-excellent and her bidding has justified the encomiums of her warmest friends."

Mine Union Leader Gets Life Sentence

MOUNT STERLING, Ky., Dec. 10.—(AP)—The first trial arising from the fighting in the Harlan county coal fields last May 5 resulted today in conviction and a sentence of life imprisonment for William B. Jones, mine union secretary.

Jones was accused of murder and conspiracy in the slaying of Deputy Sheriff Jim Daniels, one of four men shot to death at Evans. Five hundred to one thousand shots were fired in some 15 minutes of fighting between deputized mine guards and striking coal miners and sympathizers, and a score of others are under three similar indictments each in the case.

Jones, who had been free on bond, was ordered back to jail pending action on his motion for a new trial which he has until December 28 to file.

QUINCY, Fla., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Circuit Judge E. C. Love late today declared Florida's new corporation capital stock tax law unconstitutional. The law, an act of the 1931 legislature, requires all corporations doing business in Florida to file an annual report with the secretary of state to pay annual filing fees of from $10 to $1,000, based on the amount of capital stock.

The law was attacked by the Central Florida Lumber Company, a Minnesota corporation doing business in Florida. The suit asked that the act be declared invalid and that Secretary of State B. A. Gray be restrained from publishing a list of corporations which do not comply with the law.

CULBERTSONS CUT LENZ LEAD 260

ed very well indeed. Our opponents held marvelous cards."

There will be an extra session beginning 7 p. m. Saturday.

Ely Culbertson staked another $1,700 on his bridge bidding "system" tonight. Mrs. Culbertson put a rabbit's foot in her purse and together they stalked back into battle with Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby, defenders of the "official" system.

Culbertson delayed the third session only long enough to hang on a bridge lamp a wishbone that had been sent to his wife and to sign several checks to cover at 2 to 1, himself on the confident end, wager of $1,000 that came by telegraph—from Newark to San Francisco. (Clef.)

Referee Alfred M. Gruenther holds the stakes.

Jacoby took another $250 in addition to the $500 he put up at the start of the "official" system.

Culbertson's confidence chart now reads like this:

Against Lenz: $5,000 to $1,000 that the Culbertson system is better than Lenz's 1-2-3 official system and that the 150-rubber match will prove it. Winnings either way to go to charity.

TOO MUCH DELAY BOTHERS LENZ

Gruenther

BY LIEUTENANT ALFRED M. GRUENTHER, U. S. A.
Chief Referee, Culbertson-Lenz Tournament.

(Copyright, 1931, for The Constitution by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)
NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Ely Culbertson not superstitious.

Throughout the bridge tournament match so far he has refused to change seats when he has won the high card on the cut of the cards. He has maintained all along that Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby have held the lion's share of the cards.

While he is confident that in the final outcome he will be even, still he decided this evening that it might be well to invite the arrival of Lady Luck, so he hung up a large wishbone in the playing room before play began.

It took the Culbertsons an hour and a half to win the first rubber, but it was worth 1,500 points to them, so the wishbone proved to be a good investment. Mr. Lenz says that he will carry a rabbit's foot tomorrow night.

Mr. Culbertson continues to cover all bets. He is also offering odds of 2-to-1 on his own side. Mr. Jacoby covered another $500 this evening. This makes his financial interest in the outcome $750, on which he stands to win $1,500. Needless to say this money will not go to charity as will the main wager of $5,000 to $1,000.

The game tonight developed a good argument after a protest by Mr. Lenz that Mr. Culbertson purposely was taking an unnecessary amount of time in the play of the following hand:

Mr. Culbertson opened with one diamond. After Mr. Jacoby and Mr. Lenz had carried the bidding to four hearts, Mr. Culbertson bid five diamonds, which Mr. Jacoby doubled.

On the play of the hand, Mr. Culbertson went in a ponderous mental huddle for 12 minutes. Twice Mr. Lenz left the table and paced the room impatiently waiting for Mr. Culbertson to proceed.

When the contract was defeated one trick, the referees overruled the protest and announced that in the future complaints of this character could not be made until the completion of the hand.

Mr. Culbertson maintained that the distribution of the opponents' cards was a very important factor in this hand, requiring great concentration.

Mr. Culbertson always leaves the room when he is the dummy, and this also annoys the Lenz-Jacoby pair. There is nothing in the laws of the game, nor in the agreement for this contest, to prevent this, so the practice continues.

Now that the players have warmed up their bidding muscles, they have begun to indulge in occasional "psychic" bids. One of them occurred on this hand on which the Culbertsons were vulnerable.

passed and Mrs. Culbertson over-called with two diamonds.

Mr. Culbertson was now convinced that Mr. Jacoby's bid was a fake, so he bid three no-trump. However, the Culbertson hands did not fit and the contract was set two tricks.

A different result was obtained on this hand, on which neither side was vulnerable.

Mr. Culbertson, the dealer, opened with one no-trump, which Mr. Lenz doubled. Mr. Jacoby made a penalty pass and Mr. Culbertson now rescued himself with two clubs.

This was doubled by Mr. Lenz. Mr. Jacoby, fearing that the size of the double would be small, bid two no-trump, which Mr. Lenz raised to three no-trump. The device of spades was opened and the contract was just made.

Mr. Jacoby's optimism got his side into considerable trouble on this hand:

Mr. Lenz, the dealer, bid one diamond. Mrs. Culbertson made a jump over-call of two spades, indicating a powerful hand and inviting a continuation by her partner. Mr. Jacoby put a damper on this invitation by making a penalty double, which was passed by all. The ace of diamonds was opened.

It required heroic treatment by Mrs. Culbertson to avoid a major disaster. By a clever end play she managed to limit her defeat to two tricks for a 600-point penalty.

Play will be resumed at 7 o'clock Friday evening.

They're All Soldiers

but one is a General

An army car rolled along under the Arch de Triumphant followed by the marching hordes. Ahead on spirited horses rode the ranking officers obedient to the charge of duty.

On they marched, mid cheers of admiring thousands.

"They're all soldiers," someone said pensively, "but one is a General."

In the army of life, each individual has a rank, and as time moves on, many have been known to topple from their positions of prominence, to the depths of utter dependence and destitution. Particularly is this noticeable during the sunset years.

No longer is it necessary for old age to effect any change in living standards. The State Mutual now issues an Insurance with Income Contract, which guarantees independence at 55, 60 or 65—nor is it unkind of loved ones should the unexpected happen.

Yes, it's life insurance, but life insurance with a purpose! You'll be impressed with this contract, for it's exactly what you've been looking for. Here's your coupon.

Oglethorpe Tentatively Books Five Grid Opponents for 1932

BULLDOGS HOLD FINAL SCRIMMAGE OF YEAR

PETRELS MEET FIVE OLD FOES; BOOK SYRACUSE

Mercer, Clemson, Wake Forest, Chattanooga and Duquesne on List.

By Jimmy Jones.
Harold Jeremiah Robertson, the Baron of Buckhead, is far from dismayed at the news that visited his Oglethorpe football team during the late season. In fact, Coach Harry is enjoying this lively weather, and is busy with plans for the new year, hoping, meanwhile, that Santa Claus will drop a good luck charm in his way.

Maybe the raven that came to roost on Harry Robertson's threshold will prove a bird of good omen after all, the Baron of Buckhead opined as he was encountered downtown yesterday, looking his same old gay self with hair neatly slicked and a fresh shave. A hat befitting Coach Robertson's football team in its first four starts of the season is now history. There were only eight games to be played, and four of them went the wrong way through breaks and close scores before Harry and Nutty Campbell, right-hand men to the Baron, could do anything about it.

NO BEMOANING.
Things went very bad, indeed, for the Stormy Petrels, but Harry Robertson isn't moaning about it. It isn't like Harry to moan, and, besides, he's too busy laying plans for next year.

A few of them follow:
Oglethorpe in 1932, will expand her football schedule and play nine or maybe 11 games.

Coach Robertson is going to the Southern conference meeting at New Orleans December 18, with the avowed hope of reuniting his school with some organization, preferably that which may be formed from the conference schools left outside the fold by the recent split that resulted in the secession of ten schools.

The Petrels' next year's schedule is already in the making, and they are certain of playing Wake Forest, Mercer, Clemson, Chattanooga, Syracuse and possibly Duquesne or Manhattan again.

SYRACUSE BIG GAME.
Syracuse, Harry's alma mater, will be the toughest game to come, and the game is scheduled tentatively for November 5, but all the papers haven't gone through, and the contract has not been closed.

Mercer will be played in Atlanta again, and the game will be an annual Thanksgiving Day affair in the future. The Oglethorpe-Mercer game drew the Petrels' largest crowd this year.

There is little chance of Oglethorpe's playing Furman again next year, as the game was played in Atlanta this season, but Wake Forest and Clemson will come back on two-year contracts.

The home games have not yet been allotted, but Clemson and Mercer and possibly Chattanooga will come here. There is a possibility of at least one game being a night game in downtown, but this is subject to ratification and approval by the school board.

As to the new organization, Oglethorpe is a bit tired of playing independent football. It would be better to be in with rival schools, competing toward some end, it is thought.

Harry Robertson would like to be in a conference with Mercer, Wake Forest, North Carolina State, Virginia, Wake Forest and other schools along the south Atlantic seaboard.

APPLICATION PENDING.
Oglethorpe's application, before the conference now, and Robertson will go to New Orleans with the hope of interesting some of the schools in helping him form an organization that will be stronger and more compact than the Dixie association, which was formed last year. Such a body would heighten football competition, "Robby" thinks.

About next year's prospects, Oglethorpe's heaviest loss is in the backfield, where Ed Sedgewick, Syrett, Myers and Herrin will be gone. Ray Williams will return to call signals, punt and pass, however, and Putno will be back. Harry Wren is promising and so are Raines and Harrison. The freshmen might send up a back.

Oglethorpe isn't so bad off. She'll have a fighting team.

With the exception of Parker Bryant and Paul Goldsmith, the Petrel line will return the important players. Pickard, a powerful fullback and a hard worker will replace Barrow, dropped from school recently at right tackle. Big Dan Kenzie will be back at the other. Whaley and John Patrick will return at guards and Andy Morrow will be back at center. Charley George is one of the regular ends who will be counted on again.

On Tuesday night the annual Petrel banquet will be held, letters awarded and a 1932 captain elected. The schedule will be announced as soon as it is completed.

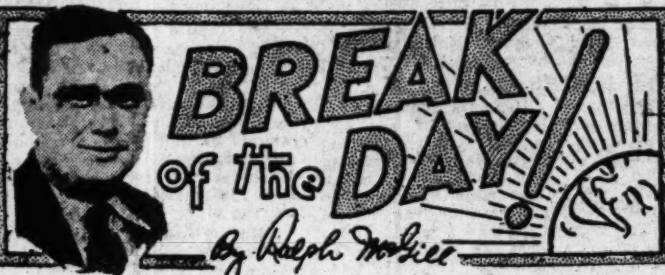

Harry Robertson is far from being down, and Harry will never be out. He isn't built on that kind of chassis.

Y-Civic Basketeers
To Battle Tonight

Three basketball games will be played tonight on the Y. M. C. A. court in the second round of the Y-Civic League. The fringe, between Frigid and Carolina Life, will start at 7 o'clock, with New York Life and the Dental College scheduled to meet in the second game at 7:30 o'clock. The DeMolays and the Federal Employees will close the program at 8:20 o'clock.

Four of the six teams are playing their first year as members of the newly organized league. They are Dental College, Federal Employees, Carolina Life and the DeMolays.

At the last meeting of the league, William Gage and D. P. Duncan were selected as the referees, and Oscar Brock was named chairman of the rules committee.

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 10.—When the curious throng of Georgia football players entered the portals of the M.-G.-M. studio this morning they were met by cameramen, managers and Miss Anita Page, a winsome young lady, who looked out with soulful eyes at Catfish Smith, Georgia's great end, and probably the best known football player in the United States.

Catfish, who seemed a bit bashful as he walked along with the young actress at his side, was nevertheless pleased. It developed later that he had promised Miss Page a ticket to the game, and that she was going to write "something" on a picture for him.

Miss Page was informed that the football players were very timid and bashful.

"Ooooo'h," she said, "I think it is just marvelous that these great big men who could just knock us over with one finger are timid and bashful."

Catfish Smith blushed beneath the tan of three hard football campaigns.

The squad and the accompanying party visited a set where Polly Moran, Edna Purcell and Buster Keaton were making a picture. They stood without a sound as Miss Moran, with the part of maid to Miss Purcell, went through a tempestuous scene wherein Miss Purcell was wild about some man named Tony—Keaton, no doubt. They saw the sound apparatus, heard the call to "turn 'em over" and watched all the work with intense interest.

After the taking of the scene they were grouped outside the studio and photographed with Buster Keaton, Anita Page and another member or so from the cast. It was here that Catfish Smith began to look around for Charley Martin, graduate manager, and to make plans that Miss Page get her ticket to the game Saturday.

I suspect that if Charley Martin fails to get that ticket he will be found at the bottom of some one of the many canyons around here. Miss Page is going to get her ticket.

MARRIED IN ATHENS.
It was when the shot was fired on the Keaton stage that Ed Sedgewick, the big director, said:

"Well, all I've got against you fellows from Athens is that I was married there."

It developed that Ed Sedgewick had played in the old Colonial theater, and at some other one called the Majestic.

"It was a funny sort of marriage," said Sedgewick. "We had been quite in love and decided to marry. I think the judge's name was Brown. We were married at 10 o'clock that morning, then had a morning rehearsal and a matinee and evening show. She had a better room at the hotel than I did, so I just moved my trunk over to her room. Marriage in the show business isn't so complicated, you see."

"I played all around in Georgia, going to Columbus, Macon and towns like that. It was in Athens, though, that I had a narrow escape. My father had been the man who first discovered Jack Johnson. Not only that, but he once licked him."

"I had a scrapbook with some stuff in it and one of the pieces had to do with that fight. My father was named Ed, too, so the reporter who saw it thought it was I, and I had a hard job getting out of several exhibition fights after the reporter had written a story saying I was the guy who had licked Johnson."

ROBERT MONTGOMERY ATTRACTS.
The feminine members of the party were thrilled to the marrow by seeing Robert Montgomery in a scene. He was standing in front of a theater with a rain-drenched sidewalk in front of it. A taxi drove up and he jumped in, leaving his mother standing on the walk calling "Willie, Willie!"

Atlanta and Athens families with friends on this trip may as well stand by. They are in for a lot of punishment. They are going to hear about the movie stars and how the movies are made. I wouldn't be greatly surprised if a lot of beautiful friendships weren't eventually wrecked. "My dear, did I ever tell you about the time I saw Robert Montgomery making a picture?"

An operation for appendicitis doesn't provide nearly the opportunity for conversational topics which may be repeated and repeated and repeated as does a visit to Hollywood.

Dodd Calls Feathers
Vols' Future 'Great'

Terms Sophomore Greatest Triple Threat; Charley Kolhase, the Unsung Hero.

By Jimmy Jones.
"Why is it," we inquired of Mr. Robert Lee Dodd in a moment of banter—figuring that all persons Robert should know—"that the University of Tennessee, your alma mater, always manages to get hold of such all-fired good backfield men?"

Are they just naturally born with two first downs for U. T. as their birthright or is there some Frankenstein on the coaching staff who develops them into ground-gaining monsters over night?"

The ex-Kingsport Kingfish was leaning over facing up his shoes preparatory to imparting a few lessons of locomotion to his own young ball carriers at Tech when we butted in and as Mr. Dodd had been one of Tennessee's cleverest football manipulators, naturally he had to blush a bit before replying in his best Tennessee drawl.

"Well, I reckon Major Neyland handles them, but I would say that his greatest backs had a great deal of natural ability to begin with and that it improved under good sound coaching." And most of Neyland's backs are natives of the state. They came from close to home.

Major Neyland, you know, has charge of the backs at Tennessee and he must be given credit for the way he got the best out of his ball carriers. For instance, Gene McEver never did any passing during the regime of Dodd because McEver didn't have to pass. This year, however, the Wild Bull came back after a year's layoff to find Dodd among the missing and immediately he took on the passing chores.

PRESTO! LIKE THAT.
There always seems to be some one around when dear old U. T. needs a good backfield man. Some magician pulls them out of a hat. Presto! Just like that.

Now, with the Wild Bull fixing to stray from the Vol herd—permanently—that is another high-class runner stepping right into his shoe. He is Beatty Feathers, whom Robert Lee Dodd terms the best triple-threat man his alma mater has ever had.

Robert makes no bones about it. He says that Feathers is positively the best triple-threat Tennessee has ever had.

KICK, PASS AND RUN.
"He can kick, pass and run and mark these words: Next year he'll be back." Continued on Second Sports Page.

MAJORS ADOPT RIGID ECONOMY AS WATCHWORD

Salaries Reduced and Player Limit Trimmed at Chicago Meeting.

By Paul Mickelson.
Associated Press Sports Writer.
CHICAGO, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A wave of drastic economy swept the ranks of major league baseball today.

Cornered by a sharp decline in attendance at their parks, the club owners of the two major circuits voted to economize by trimming the player limit from 25 to 23 and by substantially reducing general operating expenses, notably by cutting players' salaries.

No definite amount was set by the action to cut players' salaries, but the general opinion was that the matter would be left to the discretion of each club owner. Ten per cent was the estimated wage slash—a share of what was accomplished by the reduction in the player limit, which will save each club approximately $10,000 annually.

In their action to reduce salaries, the majors followed that already taken by virtually every minor league.

WEAKER CLUBS WIN.
The fight to trim the player limit was led successfully by the second division clubs of the American and National leagues, which argued that players were sitting on the bench of stronger clubs whom they could use themselves to good advantage.

American league club owners voted to reduce the limit to 22, while the National league stood out for 23. Each voted as a unit so Keweenaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball, cast the deciding vote—for a limit of 23. The option limit of 15 for each club was not effected.

Both major leagues will be forced to adhere strictly to their respective schedules in 1932. The club owners voted that synthetic double-headers, whereby games are moved up to make attractive double-headers, violate the schedule rules. Henceforth, no club or clubs can arrange such synthetic double-headers without the consent of the presidents of both leagues.

EARLY CLOSE.
The 1932 major league season will open on April 12 and close September 25 with another schedule of 154 games. The schedule, adopted at today's meeting, will be the shortest in major league history. This year the season closed September 27.

By unanimous vote, the major league club owners also voted to again underwrite the American league baseball championship tournament up to $50,000, and to contribute $7,500 to the relief fund of needy baseball veterans.

Three members of the minor league "big five" committee conferred with the major league club owners in an effort to acquaint their big brothers of baseball with their problems and financial difficulties. The majors appointed a two-man committee of Branch Rickey, vice president of the St. Louis Cardinals, and Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, to study the situation with the minors.

The three committeemen of the minor league conferees before today's joint meeting, were Judge William G. Brannan, chairman of the committee and president of the Piedmont league; Joe Carr, Columbus, Ohio; and Albert Jones, West End, and Alva (Goat) Cochran, amateur, placed second with a 71, which equaled par for the course.

Others who were near the top are Tommy Wilson, Ansley Park pro, and J. J. Jones Jr., W. V. Kingston and E. T. Mize, two Ansley Park amateurs, and Jimmy Livingston, English side pro, and Norman Elsas, former English side champion.

Manager Joe Klugman will again be at second base. Bill Rodda, a fine defensive player, will play shortstop. Shirley will be on first, and third base is still open.

HANDY MAN.
For utility work Dave Minor will be available. He will serve as second-string catcher, substitute first baseman and extra outfielder, Hamilton said.

Ray Murray, owner of the Vols and part owner of the Minneapolis club of the American association, said he expected additional help from the Brewers, as well as two players from Detroit in exchange for "Smoky Joe" Sewell, a pitcher who went to the Tigers at the end of last season.

Canton, of the Central league, will be operated by the Nashville club as a farm. Both teams will train at Nashville, reporting the first week in March.

DUKE RING CARD.
DURHAM, N. C., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Duke University's boxing schedule for this winter, announced today, includes bouts with Virginia here, January 18; Tulane here, February 8; and Maryland here, February 26.

What the Majors
Did at Meet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Reduced player limit from 25 to 23. Adopted a resolution to reduce operating expenses, including baseball players' salaries substantially.

Voted to open 1932 playing season April 12 and close September 25, with 154 games scheduled.

Adopted to underwrite American league baseball championship tournament.

Voted to contribute $7,500 to fund for needy baseball veterans.

No Major Issues Outstanding in Birmingham Sessions.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Dixie conference representatives were gathering here tonight to review its first year of existence, and to lay plans for next year.

Dean Gilbert W. Mead, of Birmingham-Southern, president, tonight said "no major issues were outstanding, and that all indications pointed to a harmonious two-day session."

Schedules for 1932 and selection of a date for the annual basketball tournament here, were said by Dean Mead to be among the items of importance to be disposed of.

Dean Mead declined to comment on the possibility of adding another member to the conference. No invitations have been issued, but it was understood some action would be taken on any applications for membership that may be presented.

At its organization meeting in Jackson, Miss., last year the Dixie set 10 members as its limit. The nine members now are: Birmingham-Southern, Howard, Mississippi College, Millsaps, Spring Hill, Chattanooga, Southwestern, Mercer and Centre.

Although the conference was organized by members of the Southern intercollegiate conference as "a conference within a conference," it was expected some action would be taken regarding withdrawal from the S. I. A. A. It was indicated individual action would be left to the members.

The executive committee is composed of Dean Mead, W. O. Swan, Southwestern; Mike Donahue, Spring Hill; C. B. Wray, Mercer, and Oscar Causey, Howard. A new slate of officers will be selected Saturday.

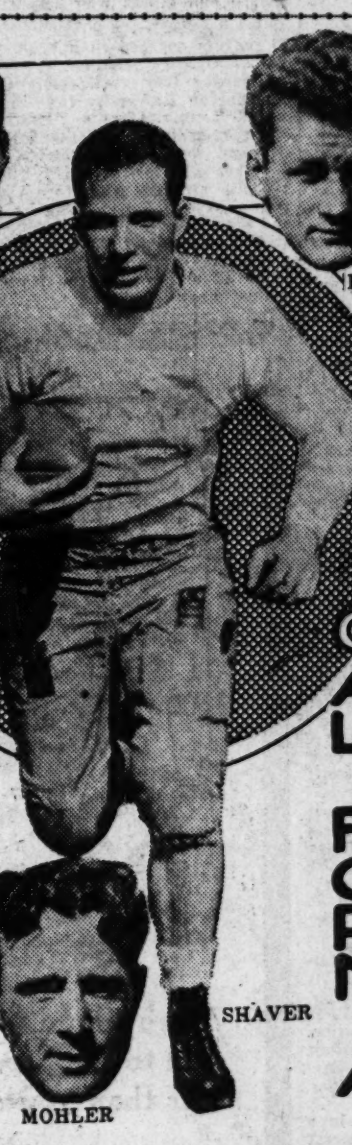

The first meeting will be held tomorrow morning and tomorrow night the officials will be guests of the Alabama Football Officials' Association at a banquet.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Dec. 10.—(AP)—Dixie conference representatives were gathering here tonight to review its first year of existence, and to lay plans for next year.

Dean Gilbert W. Mead, of Birmingham-Southern, president, tonight said "no major issues were outstanding, and that all indications pointed to a harmonious two-day session."

Schedules for 1932 and selection of a date for the annual basketball tournament here, were said by Dean Mead to be among the items of importance to be disposed of.

Dean Mead declined to comment on the possibility of adding another member to the conference. No invitations have been issued, but it was understood some action would be taken on any applications for membership that may be presented.

At its organization meeting in Jackson, Miss., last year the Dixie set 10 members as its limit. The nine members now are: Birmingham-Southern, Howard, Mississippi College, Millsaps, Spring Hill, Chattanooga, Southwestern, Mercer and Centre.

Although the conference was organized by members of the Southern intercollegiate conference as "a conference within a conference," it was expected some action would be taken regarding withdrawal from the S. I. A. A. It was indicated individual action would be left to the members.

The executive committee is composed of Dean Mead, W. O. Swan, Southwestern; Mike Donahue, Spring Hill; C. B. Wray, Mercer, and Oscar Causey, Howard. A new slate of officers will be selected Saturday.

The first meeting will be held tomorrow morning and tomorrow night the officials will be guests of the Alabama Football Officials' Association at a banquet.

Frank Ball Sails
This Saturday

Frank Ball, professional at the East Lake Country Club, will sail from New York Saturday afternoon for England, his native land, for a six-weeks' vacation. Ball left Atlanta several days ago, and is spending a few days in New York before sailing for his old home.

He is expected to return to the city early in February to resume his duties as professional at the club.

In the absence of Frank, Ernie Ball, a nephew and southeastern professional champion, and Leslie Kellett, both East Lake assistants, will be in charge of the golf shop.

Catfish and Jerry Named by 'Four Horsemen' on All-American

Two Southern Stars Outstanding at Ends

Wood, Schwartz, Pinckert and Rentner Awarded Backfield Positions.

By "The Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame.
(Jimmy Crowley, James Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden and Don Miller, football's most famous backfield, co-operate in making their first annual All-American selections for the Detroit Mirror.)

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 10.—Football, as played today, with the strength distributed in 100 schools where formerly only a few held the spotlight, is an amazing game and has produced some amazing players.

It has been our experience as coaches that every player who reports is a potential All-American, and many play just as great football as those who are nominated for fame at the end of the season.

The All-American player is a funny creature. Above everything else, he must have color, box office appeal and the ability to make spectacular plays. It is these assets that make a few players stand out each year. Many others are just as great in actual competition, but lack the spark that makes them flaming personalities, the type of athletes born to cavort in the limelight.

The All-American team we have picked this year is an aggregation of flaming personalities, boys whose deeds have been chronicled in print from September to December. Every man is a star, and every man without exception, is the type of player who inspires his teammates.

ALTERNATE NAMED.
Ten schools are represented on our selections with 12 men honored, one halfback, Bob Monnett, of Michigan State, being named as alternate. Monnett was the talk of every team he faced, but because he played with a small school failed to get national notice. But he combined all the necessary qualifications for an All-American and with another year to play, seems destined to be one of the great backs of the last few years. On any large team in the country he would have been a sensation.

Heading the grade of all-stars is Clarence Munn, the massive Minnesota guard, captain of his own team, he is given the same position on our mythical selections because he has all the necessary requirements of a leader. Weighing 212 pounds, 23 years of age, and standing five feet, ten and one-half inches, Munn has played at fullback, halfback, tackle and guard in his three years of competition, and at every post he was the outstanding man. This year he rose to his greatest heights and playing at guard, took turns tearing wide gaps in opposing forward walls and crashing through for that last vital yard when it was needed, and he was called into the backfield. Munn is an all-around athlete, being the Western conference champion shot putter, and a winner in the Penn relay. He is a physical education student, and plans to coach on his graduation next June.

ENDS EASY.
The ends select. They are Jerry Dalrymple, of Tulane, and Vernon "Catfish" Smith, of Georgia. Our agents in New Orleans write us that Dalrymple is as good as anyone says and that makes him one of the best of recent years. Smith, whose deeds against Georgia Tech and New York University are too recent to repeat, played a valuable game against Tulane and but for his presence the Green Wave might have submerged the club that trounced the Yale Bulldogs. Both were fast, got down under punts and great in catching passes. Neither end was turned for any big gain.

At the tackle, we have placed James McDermott, Pittsburgh, and Jack Riley, of Northwestern. Both were great on defense and equally great opening holes in opposing lines. It was this department where they outshone their chief rivals. McDermott paved the way for most of the Panther gains against the Army and did damage to Notre Dame despite the fact that his team was easily defeated.

At the guards, Clarence Munn and Johnny Baker, Southern California, get the call. Munn we have already mentioned, while Baker's play against Notre Dame was enough to earn him a post on any team. Cool and collected, the Trojan stalwart was never out of position and was fast enough to drag many runners down from behind on sweeping plays away from his side. He was a marvelous blocker also.

Tommy Yarr, of Notre Dame, is the choice for the center job. In former years there usually has been one outstanding pivot man. 1931 failed to produce any center who could really claim greatness but Yarr nearest approached All-American specifications. His passing was excellent and his defensive work above reproach. In addition, he knew how to get the ball away and open up holes at the same time. Captain of his team, he played most of the season with a broken left hand. In the Northwestern game he also suffered a bad cut on a right finger but passed a heavy, slippery ball accurately.

WOOD CHOSEN.
Selection of a backfield for this sturdy line was an easy task with such outstanding men as Barry Wood, Ernie Pinckert, Marchmont Schwartz and Ernest "Fug" Rentner, available for duty. The four men were the outstanding backs of a year that produced many great stars. These four, along with our alternate, Monnett, could do everything just a little better than their rivals.

Barry Wood was an inspired leader for his Harvard team during a season in which the Crimson faced many tough foes. Bottled up in the Yale game, he still had enough left in the bag to deserve the selection. His choice of plays all season was remarkable and his passing just about as good as any in the land. He could block with the best and was a fair runner with the ball. Wood will go down in Harvard history along with other Crimson immortals just because he had that spark that makes a great player an All-American.

It is not necessary to say much about Marchmont Schwartz, one of the greatest runners of the decade. Playing his final year, this Irish-Jewish boy was personally responsible for Notre Dame's victories. A superb kicker and a great passer, Schwartz was also an All-American in 1930, without doubt was the most valuable man on the Notre Dame team. His off-tackle smash was a demolition to every opponent and he was always a touchdown threat.

Ernie Pinckert, 23 years old, was the outstanding back on the Pacific coast and probably the greatest blocker in the country. He could carry the ball with the best, was an accurate passer and was responsible for a large share of the gains made by his teammates, Gus Shaver and Jim Musick. In many instances Pinckert has taken as many as three men out of a single running play.

The fullback job is ably taken care of by Rentner, one of the greatest backs in Northwestern history. Rentner's line-plunging, off-tackle runs and passing stamped him as a potential All-American from his first game to 1930. Unlike so many passers, Rentner's aerial tosses travel like a bullet, but for his receivers, seem to float into their arms. He has the faculty of throwing a "light" ball and his accuracy is almost uncanny. He is the nearest approach to Benny Friedman since the Michigan star passed out of the collegiate picture. In addition Rentner is no mean kicker.

TIDE ALL-STARS HOLD WORKOUT

Sington, Suther, Hubert and Sharpe To Play on Saturday.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—(AP)—Alabama's "Crimson Tide," cluttered up with stars of this and past years, donned the moleskins on a Washington gridiron today for the first time and gave their three opponents of Saturday something to think about.

Led by the huge bulk of Fred Sington, All-American tackle of last year, Pooley Hubert, "Flash" Suther, Joe Sharpe and others who helped make "Bama a king of the chalked turf, the 23 players engaged in a brisk workout at Griffith stadium.

Saturday they will meet George Washington University first in a 20-minute set. After a 7 1/2-minute rest they will tackle Catholic University and finally Georgetown.

Ticket sales for the charity tilt took a slant upward after the Alabama team's arrival with all of its stars, and there were indications of a record-breaking crowd for the capital.

Coach Frank Thomas and Hank Crisp expect to give the team only a light drill tomorrow.

The tall, blond Missourian was returning to the Lafayette Country Club in an automobile driven by Joe Kirkwood, a fellow professional from Chicago. As Kirkwood backed into a parking space, Smith put his arm out of the window and it was jammed between the car and a post. Smith will be out of play for several months, physicians said.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 10.—(AP) Striking the water-soaked Lake Merced course in 75, three over par, to add to his dazzling 68 of yesterday, Horton Smith, tall Missourian, posted a total of 143 today to lead the field in the qualifying trials for the San Francisco $7,500 match play open championship. He was a stroke under par for the 36 holes.

Heavy rains drenched the more than 100 survivors as they started on the last half of the qualifying grind. Despite this handicap, Smith was off to a good start. He toured the first nine in par 37, but faltered on the incoming stretch to take 38, three over standard figures.

A stroke behind Smith came Harry Cooper, New York, who had a 70, two under par, giving him 144.

Gene Sarazen, of Great Neck, L. I., held a place in the 145-stroke station. He had a 76 today and 69 yesterday. In the 146 class were Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Cal., and Willie Hunter, of Montebello, Cal.

Willy Cox, Brooklyn, turned in a 75 for a 36-hole total of 148. George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, had 74-78—152, while Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., national open champion, and Walter Hagen, Detroit, one-time holder of the title, found places in the 153-stroke class.

Two outstanding amateurs, fell by the wayside. H. C. Mendenhall, Bedford, Ore., twice holder of the national title, took an 85 today, giving him 163, too high to qualify. Phillips Finley, of Redlands, Cal., a former national intercollegiate champion, picked up after playing nine holes. He had an 80 yesterday.

T. N. T. Quint Meets Benning Tonight
The T. N. T. Class basketball team of the American League in the Sunday School Athletic Association is scheduled to play the strong Fort Benning Officers' team in Columbus, Ga., tonight.

Fort Benning for the past several years has been considered one of the strongest teams in the state, and in Jonnie Roosa, their All-American forward, they have a player of unusual ability who has demonstrated this fact by his performances against some of the best college and independent teams in the south.

Dodd Calls Feathers Vols' Future 'Great'

one of the greatest backs in these much-mooted games with Kentucky bears a touch of the dramatic.

Apparently Robert knows whereof he speaks, for Feathers, as a sophomore, did some fancy flying this fall, notably on that 71-yard dash against Kentucky and the 65-yard center run through the New York University Violets.

Feathers will be the second "Bristol Blizard" just as McEver was the first, and whereas McEver only ran and passed, Feathers will punt with the conference's finest. Feathers was considered a prize before he ever went to Tennessee. There were stories of his high school exploits at Bristol.

We also asked Mr. Dodd to relate to us the case of Charley Kolhase, Tennessee's fullback with the gifted toe who also passes out of the picture along with McEver. You haven't heard much of Kolhase. He was used largely as a substitute to go in there and kick a field goal or an extra point when such was sorely needed.

How well Kolhase performed this function is an interesting story and the part he played in the series of

"I thought at first that Hack had gone over for a touchdown, but snow had covered the goal line and it developed that he had been thrown on Kentucky's 4-yard line," said Bobby.

"Coach Neyland probably thought the same thing, for he rushed in Kolhase to try for the extra point, but on discovering that the ball was on the 4-yard line he called Kolhase back and sent in Paul Heydrick because he was a better blocking back. Hackman finally carried the ball over off-

SINGER MEETS BAT BATTALINO

Betting Even as Two Boxers Prepare for Fight Tonight.

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(UP)—Al Singer, former lightweight champion, and Bat Battalino, featherweight titleholder, were ready tonight for their 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden Friday evening.

Betting odds were even. Singer had been a slight favorite. Yesterday the odds shifted to 13 to 10 favoring Battalino.

The bout means more to Singer than to his smaller rival. It's the most important event of his "comeback" campaign.

The saga of Kolhase's heroic kicking efforts against the Wildcats ended on last Thanksgiving. The score was 6-6 when the boy with the gifted toe was again rushed in to try and save the game from the Wildcats. His kick was a tribute low. And Kolhase saw another Kentucky game go by the boards.

Georgia's Redheads May Upset Trojans

Maddox and Leathers, Consistent Players, May Break Up Famous Power Play.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 10.—(AP)—A couple of sorrel-topped guards, Red Leathers and Red Maddox, may disrupt the famous Trojan power play when Georgia meets the University of Southern California gridsters here Saturday.

It was a pair of St. Mary's guards, Captain Bill Fischer and Mike Steponovich, who turned the trick when Southern California was beaten September 25, but no other team has been able to muster the necessary strength at these positions since.

The Georgia record shows that Maddox and Leathers, 170 and 191 pounds, respectively, have been pretty hard to deal with all season. And if the Trojans are stopped at the center of the line, all may not be well for them within Olympic stadium walls two days hence.

Coach Howard Jones' team has been successful on its reverses and laterals as well as the occasional forward passes, but ability to crack just inside the tackles has been the primary factor in making the other plays workable.

Georgia will be hampered by the absence of Jack Roberts, who besides being a hard plunging fullback, is a great defensive star.

Coach Harry Mehre took the Bulldogs to motion picture studios this morning and then put them through their last hard workout at Tournament park, Pasadena.

Tone of the Markets

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Following is the complete official list of today's trading in the New York Stock Exchange.

What the Market Did

Number of advances 100, declines 100, stocks unchanged, bonds unchanged.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—(P)—Stocks dug-still deeper into new low ground for the bear market today.

Strength of foreign exchanges against the dollar may have reflected investors abroad who have been disposing of stocks here.

The last four improvement received its inspiration from a rumor that an agreement for a voluntary and temporary railroad wage reduction was to be reached at the Chicago conference.

United States Steel was actively sold prior to publication of the report that the company had announced a drop of 35¢ in its common stock.

Currency circulation sagged $2,000,000 in the week ended December 4, thus moving against seasonal tendencies.

General Motors established a new minimum at 21 3/4, but the net loss nominal.

What returned moderate advances. Corn and cotton closed slightly higher.

Foreign Markets

LONDON.—The stock market, with its usual volatility, showed a general upward movement today.

Investment Trusts

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Investment trust securities, (over-the-counter market).

Market Leaders

NEW YORK, Dec. 10.—Sales, closing price and change of the ten most active securities.

"You say the stranger who claimed to be the god's son—escaped!" exclaimed Olo-o. "Tell me about it." Then Pan-tee described Tarzan's trial, and ended: "Everywhere they are searching for him. O, my Princess, pray that they do not find him. 'So he is an impostor,' replied the princess. 'The same Tarzan-jad-guru of whom you told me, and not a god's son! He deserves death. But he was a wonderful man to look upon!' 'I tell you, my princess, that if he is not a god's son, he is at least more than Ho-don or Wax-don,' said Pan-tee, 'so brave and so strong is he.'"
